

Poor defending blamed as Wanderers slump to defeat

By Harry Gray

GARETH Ainsworth was left disappointed by a number of mistakes that contributed to Wycombe's 2-0 defeat against Morecambe on Saturday.

Shaun Miller converted from inside the six-yard box after Anthony Stewart had miscued what appeared to be a straightforward clearance early in the second half.

Aaron Pierre played a loose pass which allowed the visitors to break and earn the late penalty that resulted in Matt Ingram's red card and the second goal.

The result saw Wycombe fall to sixth in the table and Ainsworth was left frustrated by the sloppiness at the back that decided an otherwise tight game.

"It is disappointing because mistakes were always going to win and lose the game today and we made two bad ones," Blues' manager explained. "Both teams will be disappointed [with how they played]. They couldn't get the ball down and neither could we."

"As good as we have been in the last two or three weeks, we were pretty poor today and we hold our hands up. All we can do is work hard and put it right."

Having defended admirably to secure clean sheets in their previous two matches, Wycombe's defensive slump came as a surprise.

Matt Bloomfield echoed his manager's thoughts and said: "We are obviously disappointed, but the boys at the back have been solid as a rock and kept two clean sheets these last couple of weeks."

"The manner in which we conceded the goals maybe took the wind out of our sails a bit. It seemed to give them a lift and we weren't good enough to bounce back today."

The game was played in a downpour which prohibited the playing of possession-based football and few chances were created. In fact, Wycombe failed to produce a shot on target in a defeat that ended a run of three straight wins.

Morecambe's Peter Murphy suffered a suspected cruciate ligament injury to his right knee early in proceedings and had to be stretchered from the field. His injury was the only real talking point in a poor first half.

He said: "Believe me, I will definitely be showing the players what went wrong today and I am sure we can be better. Towards the end of the week it will be all about Villa though."

Wycombe Wanderers: Ingram; McCarthy, Stewart, Pierre, Jacobson, Harriman, O'Nien, Bloomfield, Wood (Ugwu 70), Kretzschmar (Udumaga 63), Thompson (Amadi-Holloway 70). Subs not used: Lynch; Jombati, McGinn, Rowe.

Morecambe: Roche; Beeley, Wilson, Dugdale, Parrish, Murphy (Goodall 15), Fleming, Devitt, Ellison, Barkhuizen, Miller (Wildig 76). Subs not used: Thompson; Edwards, Molyneux, Mullin, Forrester.

Villa up for FA Cup tie

VILLA LOOKING TO REDISCOVER WINNING FEELING AT WANDERERS

REMI Garde believes his Aston Villa side are motivated ahead of his first taste of the FA Cup as a manager.

Villa go into the game on the back of a 19-game winless run and sit at the bottom of the Premier League.

Despite this run of form, Garde is confident his players will raise themselves for the trip to Adams Park.

He said: "I know about this kind of game – playing against lower league teams, they are very motivated."

"We are motivated as well. The FA Cup is huge in this country and for the fans and the players."

The Villa boss also suggested his side's long run without a win meant that they needed to get a positive result in whatever competition they play.

Cup competitions have served Garde well in the past and he won the Coupe De France with Lyon in 2012.

A similar success in the FA Cup would seem unlikely, but he will be hoping that last season's runners up will rediscover the form that took them all the way to Wembley in 2015.

Gemma caps off top year

BEACONSFIELD GOLFER SECURES TOP-TEN FINISH AT Q SCHOOL

A TALENTED golfer has completed a memorable year by qualifying in seventh place at the 2016 Ladies European Tour qualifying school in Marrakesh.

Gemma Dryburgh's strong showing at the event just before Christmas saw her record a 12-under par score.

The Beaconsfield resident has played her golf in the area for the last 10 years and performed admirably in a field of 115 golfers in Morocco.

Her strong qualifying effort rounded off an impressive 2015 for Dryburgh in which she was also made an honorary member at Beaconsfield Golf Club.

Such an achievement is no small feat and sees Dryburgh join the likes of professional golfers Luke Donald and Peter Allis in receiving such an accolade.

BLUES: Bloomfield 'devastated' for Murphy

Shock over injury blow for one-time teammate

MATT Bloomfield says he feels for former Wycombe player Peter Murphy after he picked up a potentially serious injury during Saturday's 2-0 defeat against Morecambe.

Murphy lasted less than 15 minutes on his first return to Adams Park since leaving in the summer before suffering a suspected cruciate ligament injury.

Bloomfield was quick to share his concern for the player, with whom he spent last season playing alongside as Wycombe reached the League Two play-off final.

He said: "I am absolutely devastated for Murphy, he is a great lad. He has suffered with injuries to his knees in the past and I was gutted to see him in so much pain."

"I am just hoping it's not as bad as first thought. Injuries are a horrible part of football and I don't like to see them happen to anyone, let alone someone I know so well."

"My thoughts will be with Peter tonight and I am hoping it is not as bad as first feared, but he is a tough lad and will work hard to bounce back."

Murphy picked up the injury as he committed to a 50-50 challenge with Luke O'Nien which saw him take the full force of the tackle on his planted right leg. It is the latest setback in a season that has already seen the Shrimps captain miss more than three months of the campaign through injury.

He left the field on a stretcher as the crowd offered him a standing ovation and chanted his name.

Murphy scored seven times during his time with Wycombe and Gareth Ainsworth was quick to offer his best wishes to his former charge.

"Hopefully he will be back on the pitch soon," said Ainsworth.

"I know that getting an injury is the worst thing that can happen. I hope Murph makes a speedy recovery."

Peter Murphy is stretchered off at Adams Park.

TO HELP CAUSE AN FA CUP UPSET

JASON McCarthy says that an FA Cup third round upset against Aston Villa would be the ideal way to mark his new loan deal with Wanderers.

The 20-year-old extended his stay from Southampton earlier in the week after enjoying a fruitful three months with the Adams Park club.

Speaking shortly after the deal had been agreed McCarthy laid out his plans for the remainder of his stay, starting with Villa tomorrow.

"First and foremost I will be trying to go out and upset Aston Villa and really enjoy that experience," he said.

"Then for the rest of the loan I just want to keep getting some game time and keep learning as much as I can."

The centre-back has spoken in the past about his desire to play at the highest level of the English game.

He therefore views the cup match as the ideal chance to test himself against Premier League standard players.

The Southampton defender said: "I can't wait and I am really relishing it."

"It is a really big occasion and it will be great to put myself up against a Premier League side."

McCarthy added: "It is a big game for the club. I knew this game was coming up and it was one of the reasons I wanted to stay here for longer."

WAY' MEANS MORE TO MANAGER

GARETH Ainsworth is pleased Jason McCarthy is eager to continue working under him after he extended his loan spell.

The Southampton loanee highlighted the important role Ainsworth played in keeping him at the club, and how much he has enjoyed playing for him.

The Wanderers manager was understandably heartened to hear the youngster was enjoying his time at the club.

He said: "It is fantastic that he likes playing under me and that he is enjoying his football here."

"I am sure when people saw Jason McCarthy's first game with us they may have asked 'is he the right fit?' I don't think anyone could say that now."

Any player saying they enjoy playing for you is, of course, hugely rewarding for a manager.

But Ainsworth feels the biggest value from a player enjoying a loan period is in helping spread a positive message to parent clubs.

He said: "Jason will be taking back a message to Southampton that we do things the right way at Wycombe."

Confident Bean ready for struggling Villans

By Harry Gray

BLUES midfielder Marcus Bean says Wycombe Wanderers have nothing to fear against an under pressure Aston Villa side.

The teams meet for a third round FA Cup tie at Adams Park tomorrow with Remi Garde's side heading into the match at the foot of the Premier League table.

Villa's lowly position, and poor all-round form, has led Bean to believe that Wycombe can head into the game in confident mood against a team that will be expected to beat them.

"Their form definitely helps us. I know myself that when you are low on confidence the next game you want is not one you are expected to win," Bean said.

"You want a game that nobody gives you a chance in so you can go out and play without any pressure."

"If you are expected to win when you haven't been winning before it is not easy to play well."

"They are a Premier League side, but if we play to our ability who knows what could happen."

"Hopefully they will play below their usual standard as well."

Having been out for two months with an ankle injury Bean is facing a race against time to be fit for the match, but has been involved in training for the past week.

He has been ably replaced by Matt Bloomfield during his time on the sidelines and understands that he will not simply stroll back into the Wanderers starting XI.

Tomorrow's FA Cup clash may come too soon for the midfielder, and not playing in such a high-profile game comes with obvious disappointment.

However, Bean is aware that as a senior member of the squad he has a role to play in the build-up to the cup tie regardless of whether he plays.

The 31-year-old said: "It has been a frustrating couple of months but I am on my way back now. I have been in the gym this week and I am close to a comeback. Hopefully I'll be ready.

"My role will be the same as it always has even if I don't play."

"I will be there to encourage the boys and offer advice to the boys who haven't got as much experience."

Bean joined the club on a free transfer last January and tomorrow's match coincides with his one-year anniversary at Adams Park.

The Jamaican took time to look back on his stay at the club, which has offered up the most extreme of contrasting emotions.

"It's been a rollercoaster ride, really up and down, with the way the play-offs went. I felt I came in and played well and then had a dip in form," the midfielder explained.

"It took me a little while to get used to the way the manager wanted to play but I think I've had some good performances this season."

Bloomfield not ready to give up yet

WANDERERS' Matt Bloomfield says he is looking forward to continuing his career at the club after reaching 12 years at Adams Park.

The midfielder reached the landmark just before Christmas after joining the Blues on a free transfer in 2003.

Despite the longevity of his Wycombe career, Bloomfield has no intention of hanging up his boots and at 31 believes he still has plenty to offer the club.

"It is great, 12 years is a long time in football. A year or two is a long time these days with contracts the way they are and the vulnerability of the profession," Bloomfield explained.

"I feel like I have been playing well this season and I want to stay in the team and add more appearances to my total for Wycombe because that is what I love doing."

That total currently stands at more than 300 and has seen him become one of the senior voices in a changing room that is home to a largely youthful squad.

In his time he has experienced the highs and the lows of Wycombe's recent history including relegations, promotions and cup runs.

He will now look to add to his extensive list of experiences in the quartered Wycombe blue in tomorrow's highly-anticipated FA Cup clash against Aston Villa.

Bloomfield's playing time became sporadic at the start of the season as he had to play second fiddle to Marcus Bean and Luke O'Nien.

However, with Bean suffering injury in November, Wycombe's number 10 has enjoyed an extended run of games in the centre of midfield.

Bean is now back in training and pushing for a return to first-team duty. Bloomfield made it clear though, he will carry on fighting to maintain his place in Gareth Ainsworth's first XI plans.

As Ainsworth has previously stated that players who have earned their shirts will not lose them easily, Bloomfield may feel he has staked a claim to do just that.

Harriman signing pleases Wanderers boss Ainsworth

By Harry Gray

GARETH Ainsworth views the permanent signing of Michael Harriman as a step towards fulfilling Wycombe's ambition for the future.

The 23-year-old, who was on loan at Wanderers from Queens Park Rangers, signed a three-and-a-half year contract at Adams Park on Wednesday.

The undisclosed fee is the first the Blues have paid under current chairman Andrew Howard and represents a big development for the club, according to Ainsworth.

"People shouldn't get carried away. We are not paying huge fees for players and we don't have money coming out of our ears," he explained.

"But the fact we have been able to sign Michael Harriman shows the ambition of the club, and that the club is moving forward.

"It also shows the backing I am getting from the club, the trust and Andrew Howard. It is a really good story this week."

Harriman, whose loan was due to finish at the end of the month, has been in fine form and scored six goals since arriving at Adams Park in July.

It is an output that has seen the wide midfielder become a firm favourite among fans and develop a strong bond with the club.

This relationship was key in securing Harriman's services as Ainsworth revealed that Wanderers were not the only club after his signature.

He said: "It is a fantastic signing for us and Michael Harriman has made this place his home since arriving.

"There was interest from a few other clubs but he wanted to be here and that is great for the club."

Now with Wanderers on a permanent basis: Michael Harriman has signed a three-and-a-half year contract at Adams Park. Picture: ANITA ROSS MARSHALL

The Irishman's desire to sign for Wycombe also stemmed from the fact he is enjoying his football.

In fact, Harriman says he has played his "best football" at the club and is happy with the first-team role that has seen him play in all but one of the Chairboys league games.

"I'm happy to stay here and I am playing really good football at the moment so wanted to stay," explained the player.

"I hope I can continue to play well while I am here and to the standard that I am at the moment."

This happiness perhaps stems from the role he has been playing under Ainsworth, which has seen the one time full-back deployed as a marauding right midfielder.

It is a position Ainsworth feels he is well suited to and despite never playing in midfield before Harriman has enjoyed the transition.

"I like playing a bit further forward and I just try to show what I can do when we are attacking," said Harriman.

While Harriman's arrival represents a coup for Wanderers, Ainsworth suggested that any further incoming transfer dealings would be unlikely in January.

He said: "We can't make big signings and people shouldn't expect much business from us, but it is fantastic to have got this deal done early in the window."

Duo fail to bag awards

PLENTY OF PRIDE DESPITE MISSING OUT ON LEAGUE TWO ACCOLADES

WANDERERS pair Gareth Ainsworth and Jason McCarthy have missed out on the League Two manager and player of the month awards respectively.

They were selected for their efforts throughout December but were beaten to the accolade by Shaun Derry and Gareth Evans respectively.

Despite the disappointment of missing out on the prize, Ainsworth spoke of his pride in being selected to be among the contenders.

He said: "I am very proud of the nomination.

"It is great to be nominated and there were some fantastic people on the list.

"There are a lot of people behind the scenes who work hard. This nomination is really for the staff, players and coaches who work with me.

"We work together and that is what makes us successful, so a lot of people could be given awards for their efforts."

McCarthy's nomination is his first in the Football League and he said: "It was really pleasing for me and I have loads of people to thank for the nomination."

FA Cup clash a sell-out

AINSWORTH ACKNOWLEDGES 'THE MONEY FOR THE CUP IS BIG FOR US'

WYCOMBE'S FA Cup match with Aston Villa will give the club a huge financial boost, claims manager Gareth Ainsworth.

The third round tie has attracted a sell-out crowd at Adams Park and added TV revenue from BT Sport's live coverage is also set to earn the club extra money.

It is a cash injection that Ainsworth says will give the club a timely boost as they continue to manage a sizeable debt.

He said: "It is huge for the club. With this debt that we have it is a real challenge on the financial side of things.

"It is tough for us to sign players or to hold on to players, so the money for the cup is big for us."

With Adams Park rarely full during League games, Ainsworth hopes the cup tie will make a big impact on the non-regulars.

BLUES: Villa still have 'very, very good' players

FA Cup upset 'against the odds despite form'

FORM is temporary, class is permanent.

That, at least, is the message from Matt Bloomfield ahead of Wycombe's FA Cup glamour tie against Aston Villa.

Villa have won just once in the league all season – a run that stretches back to the opening day of the campaign – and seem destined to be relegated from England's top flight in May.

Despite this poor form, which sees Saturday's visitors 11 points from safety at the foot of the Premier League table, Bloomfield is wary of an Aston Villa side full of talent.

"It's a Premier League team coming to Adams Park with a team full of players who have been bought for millions of pounds," Bloomfield explained. "They might be having a bit of a tough time in the Premier League at the moment but they are still very, very good players."

Blues' good form of five games unbeaten came to an abrupt halt last time out in a 2-0 defeat against Morecambe. Bloomfield believes the high-profile match is an ideal platform to rediscover their form.

"The Villa game will certainly get us back up and running and we need to bounce back," Bloomfield said.

"First and foremost we will have to play better than we did today against Aston Villa. We would love to continue in the cup and we will look forward to the game and see how we get on."

While the 31-year-old accepts Wycombe will be underdogs regardless of their Premier League opponents' form, he admits the players have allowed themselves to dream of an upset.

"If [Villa] turn up on the day and perform to their maximum then they should win the game," Bloomfield said. "If we can play above our potential and they dip below theirs then who knows."

DOZEN YEARS

Matt Bloomfield keen to add to his Wanderers memories after reaching landmark

BLUES: Understudy keeper backed ahead of FA Cup clash Young Lynch 'more than capable' of filling in Alex Lynch.

GARETH Ainsworth and Matt Bloomfield are backing Alex Lynch to thrive during tomorrow's FA Cup match with Aston Villa.

Lynch is expected to start the game after Matt Ingram received a straight red card for a last-man foul on Aaron Wildig during the 2-0 loss to Morecambe.

However, the 20-year-old's experience of filling in for the injured Ingram during last season's play-offs means he is well suited to the challenge, according to Ainsworth.

Blues' manager said: "Alex Lynch only plays in the big games, doesn't he? He is more than capable [of covering Ingram].

"I think that when we played Leeds in a friendly here a couple of weeks back people saw that Alex is a great understudy to Matt.

"It is just that he is understudy to one of the brightest young keepers in the bottom leagues, but he will get his turn."

With both Ingram and Ainsworth convinced he had played the ball in the incident that led to Saturday's dismissal, the club launched an almost immediate appeal.

Wycombe were unsuccessful though, and the FA upheld the one-match ban awarded for preventing a clear goalscoring opportunity.

In Lynch's sole league appearance this season – he covered for an injured Ingram during the Chairboys' 1-1 draw against Carlisle United – he showed flashes of the quality suggested by Ainsworth.

Veteran midfielder Bloomfield also supported Ainsworth's claims, and expects Lynch to do well in the heightened pressure of playing in front of a capacity Adams Park crowd.

He said: "Lynch came in and performed in the play-off games for us last season. He likes playing on the TV as he showed them.

"It is a big blow for Matt, but Lynch will take his chance, and we are looking forward to the game."

Bloomfield was eager to stress the fine work done by the youngster behind the scenes, adding: "We know he [Lynch] is a good keeper and is great back-up to Matt and pushes him all the way."

BLUES: No change in approach against strugglers 'We have total respect for Villa' – Ainsworth

GARETH Ainsworth says his Wanderers side will show Aston Villa "total respect" when the two sides meet in the FA Cup third round tomorrow.

Blues welcome Villa to Adams Park for a match which is set to be played in front of a capacity crowd.

Clearly keen to maintain his players' focus, Ainsworth bristled at the suggestion that Villa will represent a giant-killing opportunity.

He said: "We are not thinking like that. We have total respect for any Premier League side that is coming to play at Adams Park.

"We will approach the game with the same level of intensity and commitment as we would if we were playing any Premier League team. It makes no difference that they are bottom of the table."

Villa's form has been dismal, and a 3-1 defeat to Sunderland last time out saw them fall seven points adrift at the foot of the top flight standings.

They are a further four points from escaping the relegation zone and have not won since a 5-3 victory over Notts County in the League Cup in October.

With heightened media interest in the match, which will be televised on BT Sport from 12pm, Ainsworth has told his players to enjoy the day.

He said: "The mood in the changing room has been good and we are all looking forward to the game."

By Harry Gray

"I have told the boys that they should just go out there to enjoy themselves and make the most of the day."

The Chairboys' cause may well be boosted by the return of Paul Hayes and Marcus Bean from injury.

Both men have been recovering from ankle complaints, with Bean out since November and Hayes missing Saturday's 2-0 loss against Morecambe.

Ainsworth stressed that while the pair are available they would not be rushed back unless he deemed them fully fit.

The manager will have to deal with the loss of Matt Ingram whose red card against Morecambe sees him serve a one-match ban.

Wycombe will be eager to avoid a scoreline similar to the 8-3 drubbing handed out by Villa the last time the two sides met in 2005.

Despite the history, Ainsworth is approaching the game against top-tier opposition in exactly the same way as any other.

He explained: "I am not going to approach the game any differently as I think that is when things start to go wrong for you."

Villa are currently without six players with Gabi Agbonlahor, Alan Hutton, Adama Traore, Carlos Sanchez, Gary Gardner and Jordan Amavi all out injured.

The Wanderers squad visited the new Wycombe Leisure Centre on Tuesday as part of their build-up for tomorrow's cup clash.

Duo will stay with Wanderers

DEALS FINALISED FOR HARRIMAN AND MCCARTHY TO REMAIN WITH BLUES

WYCOMBE Wanderers are celebrating a double transfer boost after Michael Harriman and Jason McCarthy extended their stays at the club.

Harriman has signed a permanent three-and-a-half year deal to keep him at the club until 2019, while McCarthy's loan from Southampton has been extended until Wednesday, February 3.

Manager Gareth Ainsworth had suggested before the January transfer window opened that he would do everything in his power to keep the players at the club.

McCarthy had been due to return to St Mary's at the start of the month and was pleased to have extended his time at Adams Park.

He said: "I am really happy to extend my stay here and I am loving my time here."

"The club is full of great people and it is a great club."

"It was a decision between Wycombe, Southampton and myself and we decided that if it was going well why bother changing it?"

McCarthy and Harriman are important members of the first team set-up at Wycombe and fans will be delighted to see the pair commit to the club.

Harriman declared his delight at becoming a permanent Wycombe player while McCarthy was quick to heap praise on Ainsworth.

The defender said: "The manager was one of the main reasons I wanted to stay. I really appreciate what he has done."

"He has given me all these games to show what I can do and has shown a lot of faith throughout my time here."

U-turn over homes and offices plan for old garage site

By Stephanie Wareham

PLANS to build offices and homes in Beaconsfield, which a residents' group said could "devastate" the town, will be discussed by the district council next week.

Plans to demolish workshops and garages at the back of 36 to 56 London End (also known as the Merritt's Garage site) and replace them with a terrace of four houses and an office building were submitted by Burnham Nominees Ltd in October – five months after a "virtually identical" application was refused over highway concerns.

The new application, which has been recommended for full planning permission, will be discussed by South Bucks District Council's planning committee on January 13. The town council and Beaconsfield Old Town Residents Association (BOTRA) were among 29 different objectors to the plans, with BOTRA chairman Sandy Saunders fearing the access road, which developers have proposed to make one-way, will affect pedestrian safety and traffic.

Speaking to the Bucks Free Press in November, he said the access road to the site could be "very dangerous" for pedestrians walking to the medical centre and that there would be severe congestion on London End if the plans were approved.

Agents acting on behalf of the applicants have since met with Millbarn Medical Centre twice to discuss their plans and have attempted to alleviate some of the safety issues with the access road. Proposed heavy duty plates on the road will be replaced with barriers, the entrance paving layout has been amended to give the medical centre car park exit improved right of way, and lighting along each access point will be looked at to avoid risk of pedestrians tripping in the dark.

BOTRA is set to send a representative to the meeting, which starts at 4.15pm at the district council offices on Oxford Road, Denham, to speak against the plans and urged all 'interested parties' to register to speak.

In the case officer's report to the planning committee, they highlighted the county Highways Authority was now "satisfied with the proposal from a highway and pedestrian point of view" and there are "no longer grounds to object to the proposal on such matters."

Team hit new gym ahead of cup clash

WYCOMBE Wanderers footballers have stepped up their training regime ahead of one of their biggest ever games this weekend by visiting the newly opened Wycombe Leisure Centre.

The group of players, including goalkeeper Matt Ingram who studied at John Hampden Grammar School just yards away, used the gym and swimming pool in preparation to face Premier League side Aston Villa in the FA Cup team on Saturday.

The club, which has a partnership with the leisure centre, joined staff and members of the public at the gym, hours after the official opening on Tuesday.

Players and management hope the town will get behind them when they host Villa in the sold-out third round tie at Adams Park.
