NOSTALGIA

Meet the original Chairboys

By Mike Dewey

READER John Bignell has been in touch concerning this photograph. John is a member of the Board of the Wycombe Wanderers Trust and is responsible for the football club's archives.

This is the earliest known team of Wycombe Wanderers from season 1889-90, just two years after the generally accepted date for the formation of the football club.

These early years are comprehensively described in the excellent book by Dave Finch and Steve Peart Wycombe Wanderers F.C. 1887 - 1996, The Official History.

In the book they were able to show a very grainy version of this image.

The much better quality print shown here was part of the collection owned by former Wanderers' President, Monty Seymour, who recently passed away.

As described in the book the first documented record of the name Wycombe Wanderers being used for a local football team was in 1887.

A meeting took place in that year at the Steam Engine pub in Station Rd of local lads who had been playing against scratch sides, but who thought that "they may do well if they went in for junior football and play against better clubs".

After much heated discussion it was agreed that the name should be Wycombe Wanderers.

A captain "Datchett" Webb was elected and Jim Ray was made the Club's secretary.

The first game for the new club was against Wycombe Nose Club on Sept 24th 1887, with the first competitive game on Jan 21st 1888 against Wycombe Ramblers.

This was in the first round of the High Wycombe Challenge Cup, the only match in that round as the other three clubs who entered were given byes.

The Wanderers lost 14-0!

By the 1889/90 season the club's headquarters had moved to the Nag's Head pub opposite the Rye, where the home matches were played.

The landlord of the pub, Bill Pearce, was a keen football fan and did much in the early years of the club to attract better players and influential supporters.

The playing strength of the club was now such that they could field two teams, first and reserves, and so it was decided to enter both teams into the Challenge Cup.

As two teams with the same name were not allowed, the reserves were entered as Wycombe Wanderers F.C. and the first team as Wild West F.C.

This tactic also allowed the club to have four representatives on the High Wycombe Football Association, each club being allocated two representatives.

The reserve team lost 6-1 to local rivals, but Wild West FC beat Mr Birch's Factory 3-0.

Two replays were needed to decide the winners of the cup, with Wild West finally defeating High Wycombe FC 2-0.

Jim Ray and Edward Crook were the scorers.

The line-up in the three games

The man at the far left in a suit is George Miles, who later became Treasurer and Chairman, and the man on the right wearing a suit is possibly the President, Joe Norton.

If any readers could help with positive identification through old family photographs etc, please contact Mike Dewey on 01494 755070 or email him at deweymiked@aol.com.

Great War timeline

TO remind ourselves of the progress of the World War I, we are detailing the main events affecting Great Britain which took place each week.

In the week up to October 5th:

On Sept 29th Private Arthur Walter from Princes Risborough was killed in action at the Western Front.

Private James Baker from Loudwater and Sergeant Robert T Hobrough from Eton Wick were killed in action, and Privates Ralph Brown from Marlow and Arthur Saunders from Stokenchurch died of wounds, at the Western Front on Sept 30th.

On Oct 1st Privates Frank Eggleton and Stanley Kearley both from High Wycombe were killed in action at the Western Front.

Napper from Marlow was killed in action and James Riddle from Iver Heath and William Smith from Hambleden died of wounds at the Western Front.

Heavy losses were incurred on Oct 4th when the battle of Broodseinde began, with ten local men losing their lives. This was the last of the three successful "bite and hold" battles launched by General Herbert Plumer during the middle phase of the third battle of Ypres. Plumer believed in making limited advances in attacks on short stretches of the line, stopping once a pre-determined point had been reached and digging in ready to repulse the inevitable German counterattack. His first two attacks, at Menin Road Ridge, 20-25 September 1917, and Polygon Wood, 26-27 September, had gone entirely to plan. A creeping barrage protected the advancing troops while standing bombardments had then isolated groups of German troops. Both offensives had seized their objectives and then held off German counterattacks. Both sides were planning an attack on 4 October. When the British bombardment began, it caught a number of German units out in the open preparing for their own offensive. The British attack contained divisions from Britain, New Zealand and Australia. As at Menin Road Ridge and Polygon Wood, the British attack achieved its main objectives and then halted to dig in.

On that day these local men died:

From High Wycombe, Privates Walter W Brion, Ernest F Smith, and Frederick Plumridge
From Monks Risborough, Corporal Abel Arnott
From Chalfont St Peter, Private William Crane
From Fingest, Private Maurice J Goody
From Chesham, Corporal Sidney Herrington
From Flackwell Heath, Private Williams Hills
From Naphill, Private George Keen
From Speen, Lance Corporal Norman C Simmonds

Looking back at our local football clubs

Top right: The Hughenden Rangers F.C. team and officials for the 1956/57 football season. The club were prominent members of the Wycombe Combination and then the Wycombe & District Football League for over 30 years.

Their first match was 'at home' on September 9th 1949 in Division 3 of the Wycombe Combination against Jacksons 'A' team. For the 1954/55 season the club decided to run a reserve team, which played in Division 4 of the Combination, and were rewarded by the 1st team being promoted from Division 3 to 2.

The club folded at the end of the 1859/60 season.

Middle right: The oldest football club in the Wycombe area is almost certainly Marlow F.C., which can also claim to be one of the oldest clubs in the country. It was founded in November 1870. The Club was then a major force in the game and one of the original entrants in the first FA Cup competition in 1871/72. They contributed a share of the £25 that bought the first trophy.

Marlow have the unique distinction of being the only club to have applied for entry to every FA Cup competition since its inception, although they were unable to compete once in the 1910/11 season. In 1882 they reached the semi-finals where they lost out to eventual winners Old Etonians 0-5 at the Oval. Two Amateur Cup semi-finals and many Berks & Bucks Senior Cup wins were among the honours won in that golden age for the club.

Bottom right: Women's football, now rapidly growing in popularity, was also played from an early date in the locality. Here we see a team from Hambleton, 1930s.

We are grateful to Harvey Coltman for permission to show the Hughenden Rangers picture. For much of the club's existence his father Harry Coltman was their Secretary.

Wycombe Wanderers seal third win in seven days

WYCOMBE Wanderers secured their third win on the bounce with an easy 3-1 victory over Barnet. Highlights included Josh Umerah's first senior goal, Adebayo Akinfenwa's sixth goal of the campaign and a second Wycombe goal from promising winger Nick Freeman.

This win propelled Wanderers into the playoffs with 21 points from 11 games.

NICHOLAS TUNNEY

IT has been another action-packed week in the world of sport in south Bucks.

There have been plenty of individual and team heroics in the past week and we have launched our school sports page.

I will begin this with a round-up of our non-league teams. The likes of Beaconsfield and Penn have had superb starts to the season and it was fantastic to see Chesham record a brilliant win at Stratford Town this weekend.

The talent is clearly there at lower levels and it shows by the plethora of results we have seen in recent weeks from our local sides.

Wycombe Wanderers have also been in scintillating form this week, with three wonderful victories in the space of seven days.

They have made a real impact so far this season, scoring at over two goals per game and if that rate keeps up, expect them to be right in the thick of the promotion race.

I got the chance to speak to the charismatic Adebayo Akinfenwa this week regarding his own start to the season as well as Wycombe's. He is seemingly playing some of the best football of his career at the moment. He constantly causes defences problems each and every game he plays and six goals in nine games this season is a brilliant return so far.

He, along with Nathan Tyson and Craig Mackail-Smith, make up a strike force with a combined age of 103 but to my mind they are up there with the best partnerships in the division.

All three have played at a higher level and all three bring different attributes. Bayo with his strength, Tyson with his pace and directness and Craig with his sheer work-rate and commitment. Long may their current form continue.

Our racing drivers also did well and congratulations go to Tom Ingram for scooping the Independent Drivers' title in the British Touring Car Championship.

He is someone who seems absolutely determined to make the most of his career and he certainly continues on an upward curve in the most competitive of sports.

James McFadden is similar to Tom. He is at the early stages of his career in swimming and having won a medal in the Juniors in Israel this summer, he has the taste for more. His words certainly carry weight and don't be surprised to see him make a real name for himself in the coming years.

The rugby season is still in its early stages but both Amersham and Beaconsfield have come flying out the blocks. Amersham, in particular, haven't even been at their best in the past couple of games which clearly serves as a warning to the rest of the division.

Beaconsfield have made a storming start to the season, with a 41-5 win last week against Reading maintaining their progress

THIS week's Opposition View is with Andrew Georgeson of Cambridge News

How have Cambridge started the season?

I think Cambridge's start to the season has been about par for what they would have wanted. They have been very good in games against Coventry and Forest Green Rovers, then were very unlucky against Mansfield and were pretty poor at Swindon Town and Southampton under-21s this week.

Who are your key players?

Uche Ikpeazu is top scorer this season with five in all competitions and has looked really good this year, scoring a few different type of goals alongside his physicality. A lot of his development has been aided by Jabo Ibehre, who joined from Carlisle, who has finally allowed Derry to play two up front.

What are the hopes for Cambridge this season?

I think that reaching the play-offs has to be the aim. We have been in and around there the past two seasons and when Cambridge are firing they are very entertaining and have two of the in-form strikers in the league. I think injuries could be key this season - with Ade Azeze ruled out for the rest of the campaign already - leaving only Uche Ikpeazu, Jabo Ibehre and Matt Foy, an academy product, available as out and out strikers.

What are your thoughts on Wycombe?

I think there's a lot of similarities between the two teams in terms of what is expected this season, and I fully expect Wycombe and Cambridge to both be there or there about. Obviously you guys are in pretty good form going into this and the U's have had a bit of a difficult week with defeats against Southampton under-21s and Swindon Town.

Prediction?

At home, I think Cambridge will probably be able to see this one out with a 2-1 win.

THREE wins in a week - the boys' response to that painful Luton defeat has been perfect.

Conceding two late goals and coming away with nothing in a game we dominated can break a team's spirit and have ramifications for your next fixtures. But we used firstly our performance and secondly Luton's celebrations as the catalyst.

It has not been easy. Every game posed its own challenges - Colchester's pace, Crewe's big-man, little-man strike force, and Barnet's fluidity all caused us problems at times. Now we have the strength in depth and the quality to go with it.

After training I often like to take in a game. One day it was QPR U23 vs Hull City U23. Managers and scouts often bemoan how difficult it is to judge how good a player is in U23 games.

But one boy - Eberechi Eze - stood out from the rest. He scored a hat-trick that day. The goals were great - all well taken. However, it was the ease at which he went past players, his ability to find time/space and his decision making that impressed me. I had a word with the gaffer a few days later and the rest is history. Eze has adapted to League Two seamlessly. He has bought into the gaffer's work ethic and ethos and shown a real willingness to listen and learn tactically. I have no doubt he will play for QPR regularly soon.

With a combined age of over 100, Bayo, Tyson and Mackail-Smith must be the oldest front three in Football League history. The golden oldies are on flames - just don't tell Bayo I called them that. Having played against Nathan and Craig on numerous occasions, I was aware of their strengths having been on the receiving end of some top performances.

However, at the back of your mind you still question 'have they still got it'. It didn't take long for the answer. During the first training session it was clear that Tyson's blistering pace and Mackail-Smith's relentless work rate was still there in abundance. With the young guns Nick Freeman, Josh Umerah, Paris Cowan-Hall and Dayle Southwell in reserve all itching to play a part, our gaffer has a few headaches.

WANDERERS RECAP

Boss hails team's 'bouncebackability'

WYCOMBE 3 BARNET 1

BLUES boss Gareth Ainsworth was delighted to see his side continue their winning run with a 3-1 victory over Barnet.

The Chairboys went ahead thanks to Adebayo Akinfenwa's first half header before further goals from substitutes Josh Umerah and Nick Freeman sealed the deal.

Barnet pulled one back through Mauro Vilhete's close-range volley but Wanderers were always in control.

Ainsworth said: "It could have been more. We made a couple of rotations and the team are really firing on all cylinders."

"There is no superstar. It is down to everyone and that is what I want and we have been able to build this over five years and get a good squad with depth."

"It is really pleasing to get nine points in a week and hopefully we can carry the run on against Cambridge."

Wanderers had six different scorers in the space of those three wins against Barnet, Crewe and Colchester and Ainsworth was pleased to see the goals being shared about.

He added: "Bayo is fantastic and his goal changed the game today as Barnet were a threat early on."

"Going forward we really threaten teams. Bayo attracts so many players and we have so many spare players in space on the park."

"To be able to replace Nathan and Craig with the two young lads who came on and did the business is excellent."

"Both goals were taken really well. Josh is a good player and he will have a good career. Nick really meant his goal and fantastic for both of them."

The manager was also keen to praise Marcus Bean for his superb man-of-the-match display on Saturday.

"Beany is a one-off", explained Ainsworth.

"He wanted to retire in the summer and there was no chance I was going to let that happen."

"The way he plays the game and his attitude is first-class. I have known Beany since 2003 and he hasn't changed. He is a great character, full of energy and a winner and he had a magnificent game."

With players, such as Luke O'Nien and Paris Cowan-Hall, due to return soon from injury, Ainsworth was excited at the options he has at his disposal.

He said: "The depth is brilliant and recruitment spot on."

Barnet had the first chance on five minutes when Vilhete burst clear out of midfield and his strike from the edge of the box was well held by Scott Brown.

A minute later, Brown produced an excellent save to deny Jean-Louis Akpa Akpro from six yards.

Rossi Eames' men again got in behind moments later but were denied yet again by a wonderful save by Brown this time from Andre Blackman.

However, seconds later, with their first real attack, Nathan Tyson put in a delicious cross which found an unmarked Akinfenwa who did the rest.

Wycombe were definitely in the ascendancy and took a deserved 2-0 lead when Umerah grabbed his first goal in Blues colours. Substitute Freeman then smashed home a sublime third which almost broke the net before Vilhete scored a consolation.

WYCOMBE WANDERERS: Brown, Harriman, Stewart, El-Abd, Jacobson, Bean, Saunders, Eze (sub: Gape, 86), Tyson (sub: Freeman, 74), Akinfenwa, Mackail-Smith (sub: Umerah, 59). Subs: Richardson, Jombati, Scarr, Southwell.

WYCOMBE: On-loan striker hits first goal for club

Young starlets show their promise

JOSH Umerah was overjoyed to score his first ever senior goal, in what will be the first of many for the young loanee.

Umerah, on loan from Charlton, finished smartly in the second half to make it 2-0 before Nick Freeman added a third.

The young striker hailed the help of his team-mates for his development and wants to continue his upward curve.

He said: "I turned on it and I just wanted to get some contact and it was a great feeling for me to get that goal."

"I felt like it was a relief for the team as well, coming on at 1-0 up and he could have gone either way at that point so for myself and team it was a relief to go further ahead and I really enjoyed the moment."

"The team are buzzing and everyone's morale is up. It isn't easy in this league and everyone is happy."

The likes of Adebayo Akinfenwa are constantly talking to Umerah and helping his progression and the young striker said all the help his older peers are giving him is being taken on board.

He added: "The competition here is healthy and everyone is scoring. Everyone is fighting and we all help each other and we are all happy for each other whoever scores."

"I have three top strikers who help me. Bayo, Tys and Craig talk to me everyday about how I can get goals and the movement and it paid off here and it's great to be able to speak to them and learn."

Umerah scored his first senior goal in the 3-1 against Barnet

Freeman scored an absolute belter for the third, rifling home from a tight angle.

The young winger added: "I tracked the player down and he tried shielding it out and managed to nick, looked up and smashed it. It was good to get the points."

Wanderers swoop for ex-Chelsea goalie

WANDERERS boss Gareth Ainsworth has made a move in the transfer market to bring goalkeeper Yves Ma-Kalambay to the club on a short-term deal.

The 31-year-old has been training with the Chairboys and has now put pen to paper until January 29, providing cover and competition for Scott Brown.

Ma-Kalambay started his career with Chelsea but moved on to Scottish side Hibernian without making a senior appearance at Stamford Bridge, and later spent time with Swansea, KV Mechelen, Royal Antwerp and most recently Romanian club Otelul Galati.

The 6'6" keeper has one under-23 international cap for Belgium and three senior caps for DR Congo to his name, and also represented Belgium at the 2008 Olympic Games.

Ainsworth said: "Yves came to our attention thanks to the excellent relationship we have with Chelsea and has a superb pedigree which will give us extra strength in the goalkeeping department."

Ma-Kalambay will wear number 30.

Yves Ma-Kalambay signed a short-term deal for Wycombe until January

BLUES: Ainsworth delighted with forward three Boss hails Goal-den oldies

By Nicholas Tunney

CHAIRBOYS manager Gareth Ainsworth hopes the side's current goal run continues as they seek a win from a tricky trip to Cambridge tomorrow.

The Blues have scored eight in their past three league games and 23 in all this season and Ainsworth was pleased that the goals side to the game had been addresses this summer.

He said: "I am hoping people realise we have these experienced strikers and bringing in these guys was the right thing to do.

"We have the youth in here and we have the legs so for these older players to be in the building is great for the young lads.

"It isn't just what they do in training and in games. Being around these guys for the younger players is benefitting them and you can see the improve week on week.

"I am hoping we are seeing the benefit with Nick Freeman and Josh Umerah coming on and scoring last weekend. Hopefully, the older brigade can keep going for at least one more season because they are definitely writing their own headlines with the goals they are getting.

"It is fantastic to see three seasoned strikers scoring and performing so well."

With that joint-record tally etched into the record books now, Ainsworth added that he remained hopeful that the squad would continue to get goals.

He added: "You are always hopeful and you don't expect not to score.

"I was pinching myself when we signed Craig Mackail-Smith and the likes of Bayo last year. Even

Mackail-Smith has been in fine form lately for the Blues

Nathan Tyson came in on trial and I was thinking how is this guy on trial.

"I am really content to sign these guys and all have scored at a higher level.

"Bayo Akinfenwa has got 180 goals and this is a phenomenal return. It doesn't surprise me and these guys are flying. I myself was playing beyond 36 and there is no reason these guys can't continue further."

At the other end of the spectrum, Ainsworth commented: "Loan signings are key for us and I want to add a few more and we needed to get it right.

"We had the likes of Alfie Mawson and Jamal Blackman and we have got them spot on. I am delighted for Josh and he is thriving off working with these experienced strikers."

Turning attention to tomorrow's game and Ainsworth is expecting a tough tie against Cambridge.

The 44-year-old explained: "Last year, we started our great run at Cambridge so we have to be on it as football can turn.

"They are very dangerous at home and have a big, big side. We know about their two strikers and they have been on my radar in the past. Losing Berry to Luton was a blow for them but Shaun Derry is a very good manager.

"He will have his players working hard for him and they are such a threat at set plays but we want to keep this run going.

"This run away from home we are currently on is absolutely fantastic and we just hope it carries on for us."

The Blues currently sit in seventh place in the division.

Bayo keen for more away day victories

...quickest in the squad, produce the goods. Age is nothing but a number for me but we have to keep on our toes as there are plenty of guys such as Paris, Josh and Nick who are very good players.

"It really does show that with the experienced boys we know who we have breathing down our necks and we go for as long as we can and we know who there is to come in so there is a beautiful balance at the moment."

The young players who have come onto the squad in recent weeks have really impressed the experienced front man and he said their mentality is one of their strongest assets.

He added: "It is great to see the likes of Dan Scarr coming in and show what he is about. He made a comment to me that he doesn't lose headers and it is great to see youngsters like that have confidence and I am really impressed.

"Their mentality and how they have clicked into the squad is brilliant and all three of them have shown their quality.

"Ebere Eze, for me, has all the ability in the world and they have fitted in like a jigsaw puzzle."

Tomorrow represents a tough game for the Blues, and Akinfenwa is looking forward to testing himself against one his old rivals.

He commented: "I will be up against Leon Legge on Saturday and I have known him for many years and it is always a good battle.

"Cambridge are a big strong side from defence right through to their two strikers, Jabo Ibehre and Uche Ikepeazu.

"To be fair, there is no easy game at this level and we know it will be tough and we are working tirelessly on the training field and hope to continue this winning run."

Akinfenwa himself added he was happy with his own form at the moment too.

"I am happy with myself at the moment," explained Akinfenwa.

"I have played a lot of minutes so far, although I missed two games.

"The main thing for me though is that the team wins and as long as that happens I am happy."

GOALS GALORE

- Akinfenwa hails teammates contribution
- 'Perfect' blend of youth and experience
- Striker starts season with a bang

WYCOMBE WANDERERS scored a whopping 23 goals by the end of September, equalling a club record for the amount of league goals scored by that point since the start of the season.

Last season, Adebayo Akinfenwa and Scott Kashket topped the scoring charts with 18 goals and 16 goals respectively with a bit of a gap back to the third top scorer at the club.

This term, Akinfenwa leads the way once again with six goals so far but the goals have been rattling in with the likes of Joe Jacobson on three goals and a host of players on two goals including Akinfenwa's strike partners, Nathan Tyson and Craig Mackail-Smith.

The front three and Josh Umerah, who grabbed his first senior goal last weekend, have got 11 goals between them and Akinfenwa hailed the quality and depth of the squad.

He said: "It was great to see Josh score his first senior goal. It was also beautiful to see Craig get his first goal for us as we are all delighted for him because he works tirelessly for the team.

"The more we can get goals from different players, the more it breeds confidence into the squad. For me, you can see Macca, one of the fittest team, and Nathan, who is one of..."
