

Trio to lead Isthmians

THE Berger Isthmian league has turned to a managerial triumvirate of Billy Miller of Leatherhead, Fred Callaghan of Woking and Alan Smith of Dulwich Hamlet to take charge of their League side to compete in the O.C.S. inter league cup this season.

The trio are to get together shortly to draw up a squad, then get down to serious work of preparing them for this prestige tournament.

Miller, the longest serving manager in the League, said: "We will also be looking for somewhere to train which is in reachable distance of the squad members. I expect we will be holding the get togethers on Sundays."

The experienced Callaghan and Smith, who have both proved their ability, could help lead the Isthmians to much brighter things.

Callaghan said: "We will be meeting later this week and we will have to decide whom we are to work under. Someone must take the overall responsibility. We can't have all three of us rushing into the dressing room at half time giving our various views on how the team is to play."

Overseas

The magic of Jimmy Greaves lingers on, although it is approaching 14 years since this great player last pulled on an England shirt. Now playing in the Kingsbury Athenian League with Woodford, Jim's name itself has provided a magnet for overseas youngsters.

Two of the most promising teenagers in North American Football are to join Woodford shortly.
