

Top side to open lights?

WYCOMBE are hoping to attract a top Football League side to Loakes Park in the New Year to mark the installation of their new floodlights which should be in use before Christmas.

The lights, which cost about £10,000 are being installed by Floodlight Manufacturing Ltd of Iver and are expected to prove a considerable improvement on the existing lights which were erected nearly 20 years ago.

Wanderers will be using the old lights on Wednesday night when they entertain Carnegie College, the teacher training centre from Leeds, in a friendly at Loakes Park.

Manager Andy Williams hopes to try out two unnamed strikers for the match which has been fixed up because Blues are without a midweek league match.

The news about John Maskell following his manipulative operation is encouraging. He feels much more confident about his back, but it will be some weeks before he returns to the fray. So the potentially embarrassing position of having three fit goalkeepers on the books has not yet arisen.

Mick Hollifield has undergone tests and X-rays on his mysterious glandular trouble and should know the results this week.

The draw for the first round of the F.A. Trophy, when Wycombe come in for the first time, will be made at 11.30 a.m. today (Tuesday).
