

Ex-Man Utd defender trains with Blues

MARTYN Rogers, who has gained Football League experience with both Manchester United and Queens Park Rangers, is currently training with Wycombe Wanderers.

Rogers, a defender, who played one league match for United before moving south, made his debut for Wycombe Reserves in a friendly against Borough Road College on Saturday — a game which they lost 6-0.

At present Rogers is not signed on anywhere, although he has been playing a few matches with Reading Reserves. He trained at Loakes Park last night and would give Wanderers some cover at the back.

They might need it as Anton Vircavs is likely to be out for several weeks following the removal of an abscess from his leg.

Touch and go

George Borg's written release from the United States still had not come by midweek, so it is touch and go whether he will be able to play in the Berger Isthmian League

Premier Division match at home to Barking tomorrow (Saturday).

Wanderers will have to show more stability than they did in the 1-1 draw against Tooting last Saturday, which was enough to knock them off the top of the table.

Terry Glynn put the Blues ahead in the first half only for Herbie Smith to equalise 12 minutes after half-time.

Barking, under manager Harry Cripps, the old Millwall favourite, have shown improved form this season, thanks, in part, to the £40,000 pumped into the club by the company of Johnny Pritchett, the former British boxing champion, who is the new chairman.

Marlow, Chalfont St Peter and Amersham set off on their one remaining route to Wembley tomorrow (Saturday) when they go into action in the F.A. Vase.

Abingdon Town, who held Burnham to a draw in the Berks and Bucks Senior Cup, will provide Marlow with their opposition at the Alfred Davis Memorial Ground. One player definitely out of the Marlow side is Brendan O'Sullivan.

Following an injury to a knee it has been decided he must have a ligament operation and will be out for up to six weeks.

Chalfont St Peter will have to beware of the local rules when they travel to South Midlands Leaguers Shillington. As Amersham found out when they went down 4-1 there last season, the power lines over the pitch can be helpful.

The Magpies conceded a goal after a wayward shot rebounded off the cables — a Bedfordshire F.A. ruling allows for the eventuality.

Amersham will have their seemingly weekly selection problems to attend to before they get down to the task of entertaining Nemean League Tansley.
