

Farewell to Jock!

WYCOMBE players lined up before the start of Saturday's match in honour of their retiring groundsman Jock Sheppard on his last day at the club.

Manager Mike Keen presented Jock with an inscribed silver salver and beer mug on behalf of the players, while chairman Brian Lee (left) then gave him a retirement gift of £2,000 from the club. Skipper Paul Birdseye (second from right) and other players look on.

A sad-looking Jock Sheppard receives a retirement gift of £2,000 from Wycombe Wanderers chairman Brian Lee, on his last day as the Loakes Park groundsman on Saturday. Jock, 63, also received an inscribed silver salver and beer mug from the players, who lined up before the start of the match with Bishop's Stortford.
