

SNOW JOKE!

Weather halts Blues march

THE big freeze put a halt to Wycombe Wanderers' mini-revival this week.

Their dreams of FA Trophy glory were put on ice as their third round tie against Leek Town was called off on Saturday and again last night.

The match is now scheduled to be played at Loakes Park on Monday night, kick off 7.30pm.

If the Blues progress past their North West Counties league opponents they will have to travel to play either Vauxhall Opel League, Worthing or Gola League outfit Kettering.

But boss Alan Gane won't be too despondent; at least the Blues have avoided the big guns Wealdstone, Altrincham and Enfield.

"I'd have preferred a home draw, but I can't complain, although Kettering might prove a bit difficult because we haven't played them yet this season," he said.

"But I did enjoy seeing Enfield get Wealdstone.

That's what I call justice because we owe them one!"

Club officials were hoping this week's games could have gone ahead with the Blues in the middle of such a good run.

Back in the league Blues managed a point at Weymouth on Wednesday night, which many would have thought impossible remembering their earlier performances against the Dorset club.

They had a terrible start going one down after just three minutes, but bounced back and former Exeter City 'keeper Len Bond was forced to save well on several occasions.

But he could do nothing to stop Neal Stanley's fierce equaliser just after the break.

No senior football was played in the region although Chesham United and Beaconsfield Utd did play away from home.
