

Managers shrug off flare-up

BOTH managers played down the violent incident which marred Monday's FA Trophy thriller at Worcester City.

Leek manager Kevin Lewis revealed that the North West Counties League club will not take action over the punch-up between his players and several Wycombe supporters.

"It was an unfortunate incident but we have forgotten about it now," said Lewis who was involved in heated arguments with Blues fans immediately after the 1-1 draw.

"It was spur of the moment stuff and we all regret it the next day.

"There was no need for fans to come on to the pitch but you expect these things in an exciting cup match with so much at stake.

"It was a shame it happened because it marred three interesting confrontations between us and Wycombe."

Wanderers boss Alan

Gane was also unmoved by the incident.

"I couldn't really see what was going on because I wasn't close enough," stated Gane who pleaded with Wycombe supporters behind the goal to behave.

"There were bodies everywhere but it looked a lot worse than it really was," added Gane, who went on to lavish praise on Leek.

"If they played like that every week they could hold their own in the Gola.

"They have got four or five really good players and it is no surprise that they've got this far in the Trophy."

Wycombe Wanderers secretary John Goldsworthy confirmed that the club will look into the incident.

"We will wait for the referee's report and attempt to get as much information as we can before making any decisions," he said.

"We are aware that a Wycombe person was arrested but we understand that it was totally unrelated to the affair behind the goal."
