

Regis move?

DAVID REGIS of Windsor and Eton is the latest man to come under scrutiny as Wanderers' boss Jim Kelman continues his search for a big centre forward.

The hefty Vauxhall-Opel Premier Division striker is known to be unhappy at Stag meadow and is not likely to resume his connection with the club now that he has returned from a playing stint in New Zealand.

The brother of former West Brom and England star Cyrille, Regis has suffered with damaged left knee tendons recently, but Kelman has arranged with Windsor manager John Clements that the unsettled Londoner should come to train at Loakes Park, probably starting next week.

Kelman stresses that there is no obligation involved on Wycombe's part and that he is just having a look at the former Fisher Athletic and Dunstable 24-year-old.

But two other Conference clubs are also believed to be making enquiries about Regis, who turned in an impressive performance in Windsor's Cup defeat against Barnet this season.

A figure of £10,000 has been bandied about but no official approach has been made.
