

Injury fears for the Blues

WYCOMBE Wanderers manager Jim Kelman has had a worrying time this week regarding injuries.

Kevin Durham, Sean Norman, John Granville, Andy Robinson all suffered knocks over the last two games but all should be okay for Saturday's match away to Runcorn.

Not so fortunate is Matt Crossley who has been advised not to play, he will go into hospital for an exploratory knee operation on January 13 and if he does need an operation he will possibly be out for the rest of the season.

Martin Blackler who was transfer listed last week after being sent off during the Boxing Day clash with Aylesbury has been approached by Bath City. Ironically Wycombe are due to play Bath in the FA Trophy on Sunday January 15.

The club's have agreed terms and it is now up to the player. Of the decision to place Blackler on the list which was said to have been harsh in many quarters, Kelman said: "Something had to be done. All of our sendings off with the exception of Keith Baratt have been retaliation and it's no good just saying you're a naughty boy don't do it again. That doesn't work."

Former Arsenal player Brian McDermott has been linked with Wycombe this week but the Blues are unable to arrange anything until they have off-loaded some of the players they have at the moment.

Aylesbury have expressed an interest in Kevin Day who has been on loan to Harrow Boro.

Wycombe gained maximum points over the Christmas and New Year holidays taking them to seventh place in the league.

They followed their win at Aylesbury on Boxing Day with a 3-1 win at Maidstone on New Year's Eve and a 1-0 win at home to Aylesbury on Monday.

Tomorrow the Blues travel to Runcorn for a GMVC game kick off 3pm, and then next Wednesday they are at home to Winslow in the Berks and Bucks Cup - kick off 7.45pm.

Wycombe were originally drawn away for this match but the North Bucks club agreed to switch to Loakes Park.
