

Wanderers'

fan fined

A WYCOMBE Wanderers supporter found drunk at Loakes Park on Easter Monday was fined £25 with £15 costs by the town's magistrates this week.

Keith Barrett, of Booker Lane, High Wycombe, was seen staggering out of the gent's toilets during Wanderers' 1-1 draw with Macclesfield Town.

He tripped up on the terrace and a can of lager fell out of his shirt pocket.

As he bent down to pick it up he fell over again, the court was told.

Police arrested the unemployed bricklayer and put him in a police van until the game was over.

He pleaded guilty to the charge.
