

KIDDERMINSTER Harriers last week launched Phase Two of their Aggborough Redevelopment Programme. Tenders for loans in the region of £500,000 were invited for the new 1,200 seater grandstand planned at the ground. Discussions have been opened with two leisure corporations and Harriers are due to meet a third in midweek.

Plans for Phase Two of the Aggborough project were approved at the club's recent AGM and work is expected to start early next season. The £1 million programme includes a new grandstand with sponsor boxes and a Harriers executive club. Phase One of the redevelopment scheme, incorporating two new terraced areas, additional toilets and ten turnstiles, was completed during the summer at a cost of £420,000 to the Vauxhall Conference club.

THE town of Welling is to commemorate the achievements of its resident Conference club by mounting a new Wings Exhibition at the public library. The initiative is the third of its kind to feature a Conference club, with Barnet and Barrow the subject of similar exhibitions earlier in the season.

The Welling display, which celebrates United's achievements during their remarkable 27-year history, includes trophies, programmes, photographs and souvenirs dating back to 1963. Featured amongst the mementoes are photographs of vocalist Rod Stewart who arrived at Park View Road by helicopter to play in a Welling United charity match.

SUTTON United's Keith Blunt and Peter Wragg of Macclesfield Town are the early pace-makers in The Mail on Sunday Manager of the Month award for March.

The two, who met at Gander Green Lane on Saturday, share the lead with an average of 2.33 points. Despite losing 2-1, Conference successes over Cheltenham and Wycombe keep Peter Wragg joint top of the monthly managerial table. He partners Keith Blunt who has also steered his side to two victories during the period. The pair hold a narrow advantage over Wycombe Wanderers manager Martin O'Neill (2.25) who slipped into third place following Saturday's 1-1 draw at Cheltenham Town.
