

Plan to ease parking hassle

ANSWERS to parking problems at Wycombe Wanderers' football ground could be nearer as a four-point plan is put forward.

A meeting of all bodies involved in the problem took place recently to discuss how best to unclog roads on match days near the Adams Park ground in Hillbottom Road, High Wycombe.

There could be more waiting restrictions, more buses may be put on, a park-and-ride scheme is being considered and supporters will be encouraged to use parking at local schools.

Solutions

Wycombe District Council's chief engineer John Bennewith said: "Everyone at the meeting was very much aware that solutions need to be found to ease problems on match days.

"All the parties involved are anxious to improve the traffic congestion and reduce the disruption affecting those who live near to Adams Park.
