

Wanderers run eye over England player

ADAMS Park stages the prestigious match between Middlesex Wanderers and the Royal Netherland National Amateur XI tomorrow night (ko 7.30pm) with special interest for Wycombe.

Blues fans will have the chance to see Mark West and Dave Carroll in home action for the first time since the FA Trophy Final, while Andy Kerr is the stand-by player should anyone drop out.

Wycombe will also be watching Sutton United's Paul Rogers, who won his sixth England semi-professional cap last Friday, with a view to bringing his midfield talents to Adams Park on a more permanent basis.

Rogers, 26, was a mainstay in the relegated United team and is eager to stay in the Conference.

John Reardon, Blues' assistant manager, said: "We'll be having a look when he plays in the Middlesex Wanderers on Wednesday. Let's say we've shown an interest."

Squad: Phillips (Barnet), Kurila (Kidderminster), Willetts (Cheltenham), Richardson (Barnet), Slack (Kettering), Hemsley (Sutton), Bull (Barnet), Carroll, West (both Wycombe), Willis (Barnet), Robbins (Welling), Jacques (Redbridge Forest), Weir (Kidderminster), Thompson (Slough), Rogers (Sutton), McKenna (Boston)
