Kevin Durham's son to benefit

GATE receipts from Tuesday's game should swell the Kevin Durham Memorial Trust Fund by approximately £7,500.

The fund, set up by Kevin's friends for the player's son Matthew, has already been boosted by collections made by supporters and players of several clubs, including Oxford United, Northampton, Peterborough, Northwich and Kidderminster.

There are plans for a benefit match later in the year between Oxford United, the team of Kevin's home town, and Barnet.

A Kevin Durham Memorial Trophy match was recently played between Littlemore Under 15 and Oxford Blackbirds U15.

Littlemore, where Kevin lived, won 3-2 against the team he played for as a youngster. The trophy will now be contested annually.

Kevin's girlfriend Ruth Payne, advertising sales manager of the South Bucks Star Series, said of Wycombe's victory over Barnet: "Kevin would have loved to play in that game. It's a testament to the man that so many were there. Anyone who met him had respect for him. It's great Kevin's son will benefit from this."

Ruth said she will still watch the Blues when Barnet aren't playing. "At Lincoln (where Barnet won 6-0 last week), Kevin would have been on the ceiling. It's nice to see them doing so well."
