

Smith told to get fired up

FORMER Colchester player Gary Smith may be sitting tentatively on the edge of a suspension — but he is under orders to get fired up again.

Smith, who has played League football with Colchester, could be only one booking away from a ban.

But his manager Martin O'Neill said: "Gary Smith has done excellently as part of a side that has won eight games on the trot, including the shield.

"But in the last two games, he's run around like a fellow under the death-threat of suspension and I feel it's shown in his game."

Smith's never-say-die attitude has certainly played its part in Wycombe's dazzling early success.

O'Neill added: "He'll spend a game running round trying not to get booked and it'll be sod's law he'll end up getting booked for not getting back ten yards from a free kick or something."
