

Tickets available

OVER 500 tickets are still available for Wycombe's all-ticket game at Kettering this Saturday.

Blues' fans travelling for the first-round FA Cup game must buy a ticket beforehand, and both stand and terrace tickets can be bought between 10am and 4pm until Friday, and before tonight's reserve game at Adams Park.

Three supporters' coaches are travelling. Contact the commercial department at Adams Park for more details.

Any replay would be at Adams Park on Wednesday, November 27 and the result would be decided on that night.

● IF A replay is needed in Marlow's FA Cup match at West Bromwich Albion the match will be played at Oxford United's ground on November 27 (ko 7.45pm).

Football strip hits cash target for star

FIVE soccer stars gave their most revealing display of the season on Saturday – by stripping down to their undies in front of 250 people.

But none of the crowd cried foul play, for the performance was one of the highlights of a testimonial night for Wycombe Wanderers star Mark West.

A group of West's teammates did a Chippendales-style routine during a special show at the club's ground, Adams Park.

Female members of the audience were invited to the edge of the dance floor as the stars took it in turns to strip down.

Simon Stapleton, dressed as a sailor, Davie Carroll (plumber), Jason Cousins (fireman), Paul Hyde (bouncer) and Gary Smith (doctor) gyrated their way through a rhythmic dance number before taking their clothes off.

This performance helped raise more than £2,000 for the popular player.

The evening was compered by his striking partner Keith Scott along with a Question of Sport challenge, a buffet, raffle and disco.

Afterwards, Mark said: "I think Scotty should take it up. All the lads did really well – I've got them booked up for the town hall. But it was a brilliant night, and a great turn out."

Planners visit site

COUNCILLORS have decided to visit a site where developers want to build 113 flats.

Plans to redevelop the remaining part of Loakes Park have been registered with Wycombe District Council, but the members at Wednesday's planning applications panel said they wanted to see the site for themselves before making a decision.

The application includes a proposal to build seven blocks of bedsit, one and two-bedroom flats, totalling 113 homes.

There are plans for garages as well as communal parking areas.

The proposed access to the site would be from Queen Alexandra Road.

But in a report to the panel, the council's chief planning and development officer Christopher Swanwick said, if the plan was agreed, conditions should be set down as to the materials used and the landscaping.

● EVERYONE is having an 'ell of a time spelling the name of Wycombe Wanderers' manager. Hacks wrote it as Martin O'Neil before discovering it was O'Neill.

Fair enough, we all make mistakes. But even though O'Neill's been in the job about two years, it seems his own club still can't get it right. A Backchat spy found the manager's name with just the single 'L' on a list of telephone extensions in the Wanderers' boardroom.

But these things never happen to Bryen Cluff.
