AS Andy Kerr works his way back to full fitness, he can gain some consolation from being the Bucks Free Press's most consistent Blues player so far this season.

His knee injury was still swelling up following his initial sessions in the gym last week, but his performances up until November 9 suggest his return will boost the Wanderers' defence.

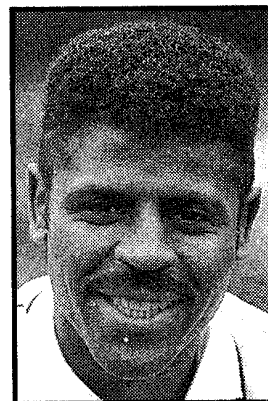

A surge of form from Dave Carroll earned him the supporters' vote as player of the month for November, and this is reflected by his run from nowhere into second place in the match facts table which he headed last season.

The table is based on the match-by-match marks out of ten awarded by the Bucks Free Press reporters attending the Blues' games up to and including December 21. Only players who have received a minimum of 12 marks are included at this halfway stage.

So Simon Hutchinson just qualifies as his goalscoring form pushes him into the reckoning.
