

How can they ignore us?

AS a supporter of Wycombe Wanderers for many years, both home and away, I feel compelled to write to you regarding the promotion appeal launched on behalf of the club.

Having read your colour supplement "Back the Blues", I must add my support to the cause for promotion. It seems ridiculous that the Football League have made this ruling with complete disregard for the supporters and officials of the best non-league side in the country, not to mention the feelings of many top names in the game.

I thought one of the objectives of the League was to promote the game in the best way possible, how then can they ignore the cause of Wycombe Wanderers?

In addition, when you take into account that Aldershot have folded, and that we have finished joint top of the table with the greatest number of points for many seasons, surely the League must change its mind.

If the League is to remain faithful to its objectives, it surely must not remain insular to this, after all we are not asking for them to do a U-turn, just to give the club and its supporters what is just and right.

P A Cook
Slade Road
Stokenchurch

Decision beats me

AS A Brummie, my first love in football has always been West Bromwich Albion. But having lived in Wycombe since 1985, I have a very high regard for Wycombe Wanderers and see no reason why they could not in the fullness of time be more successful than Albion.

It is impossible for me to understand the Football League's reluctance to admit Wanderers to the league - they should welcome them with open arms after this season's performance.

R W Butlin
Berkeley Road
Loudwater

Danger of scoring an own goal

I BELIEVE Wycombe should be promoted into the Football League for the same reason stated by Barnet's manager Barry Fry - common sense.

With the demise of Aldershot creating a vacancy, it's common sense to have an even number of clubs in the League. Clubs like Northampton Town and Carlisle United, who are in a poor financial situation would benefit from the inclusion of the extra team with increased revenue. More so as the club is Wycombe Wanderers with its large following home and away.

It seems to me the only reason the League will not invite Wycombe is because it will be an extra year for the bottom team not to be relegated into the Vauxhall Conference. They are in danger of scoring an own-goal as the clubs previously mentioned are likely to do the same as Aldershot. Darlington and Colchester have re-built after relegation and regained promotion to the Fourth Division - Aldershot certainly will not.

I can only hope the League will review the situation and come to the common sense decision and invite Wycombe Wanderers into the league - a decision I am sure they will not regret.

P L Cheese
London Road
High Wycombe

Training pitch should be built

WHEN it suited the council recently, they changed Green Belt land to White Belt land and promptly allowed housing to then be built on that land. This I understand has happened in Hazlemere.

If it is possible to do this in Hazlemere, why is it not possible to do it so the Wanderers can have their training pitch.

We understand "Thine be the glory". We all saw it when Wycombe were triumphant last year and the council lapped it all up the following day.

So why so adamant they cannot have their training pitch again virtually the following day, and why all the double yellow lines up the approach road?

It's almost as though no-one wants Wycombe to do well or have any supporters to see how they do get on.

There are so many more comments I could make but do not have the time to put them all on paper, at least not at the moment.

I am sure Wycombe District Council would expect to share the glory if the Wanderers went up to the Fourth Division.

Pam Ailward
Orchard Drive
Hazlemere