

Greene link is firmly denied

WYCOMBE Wanderers and Dundee United this week quashed rumours linking Dennis Greene with the Scottish Premier League club.

The national press have been chasing Blues boss Martin O'Neill after a magazine article said that Dundee United had signed Greene for £100,000.

The 26-year-old forward had a week-long trial with the Scottish club in the close season.

But Dundee Utd boss Jim McLean this week denied such reports and condemned those who wrote them.

"It's a lot of rubbish. He did play a trial back then but there has been no offer since. He was not really match fit."

Similarly O'Neill said: "It's a load of baloney, or if it isn't a load of baloney, I haven't heard about it. No one's been in touch, not Dundee, Dundee United, Partick Thistle or Chelmsford."

McLean added: "The biggest frustration in my job and for the players is when reports such as this are written. It doesn't help me and it doesn't help the player."

Blues are the pride of Bucks

WHOEVER said Bucks was a footballing outpost?

We may not have a Football League team - not yet, anyway - but Martin O'Neill's Wycombe Wanderers are the envy of every other non-league team and quite a few in Division's Two and Three as well.

They sit on top of the GM Vauxhall Conference right now, and one ambitious rival manager has already told a Sunday newspaper that if Wycombe go up, his team would then have nobody to fear in their own bid to win the Conference.

Wycombe are the team the rest have to beat.

They have the best team, the best stadium, the best support and, indeed, the best manager.

And, before you cry I'm biased, I know. But how many could disagree?

And let's sing the praises of Chesham United, too.

It can't be easy trying to build up a successful side in Wycombe's shadow but, for the first time in their 104-year history, Gerald Aplin's team have managed to reach the giddy heights at the top of the Diadora Premier this season.

Wouldn't it be nice to see Wycombe's place in the Conference next season taken over by the mighty Generals from The Meadow?
