

Soccer fan had Speed

FOOTBALL fan Jason Lilley was caught with illegal drugs at the Wycombe Wanderers ground, High Wycombe.

West Bromwich supporter Lilley, 24, of Yew Tree Estate, Walsall, West Midlands, had come to see his team play the Wanderers at Adams Park.

Police who searched him at the gate found he was carrying 402mg of amphetamine sulphate, or Speed.

Unemployed Lilley, who has four children, pleaded guilty at Wycombe Magistrates Court on Monday to possessing the drugs in December last year.

He also admitted breaking a bail condition. He was fined £40 with £35 costs.

Jacko leaves me uninspired

SORRY readers.

Last week I pledged to write a special chant in honour of Michael Jackson to be sung on the Wycombe Wanderers terraces.

Only trouble is I still can't think of anything that doesn't have a swear-word in it.

My vow came after Jacko's frontmen turned down a Backchat plea to let Wanderers release a charity version of a song he owns.

Only two pathetic ideas were ventured forth in my office. They were: "Bloody hell, I'm so mean" to the tune of Billie Jean, and "He's black, he's white, he is so very tight." (The words "so very" can be substituted.)

● Any ideas? Send them to Midweek, Gomm Road, High Wycombe, Bucks, HP13 7DW. Michael Jackson is banned from entering this.

IN OFF THE POST

Dear Sport,

I READ Mr Haines' letter with disbelief. To compare today's team with those of the past is futile and to suggest that they were fitter in 1975 is ludicrous.

I was at Middlesbrough on that momentous evening and at the end of the game our players were exhausted. Not so at West Bromwich this season, where we finished as strongly as the opposition.

Also his statement that we score early goals and just hang on is incorrect. For his information we have won 5-1 once, 4-0 on five occasions, 4-1 twice and 3-0 on three occasions. I consider that pretty good going for a team that wins more by luck than judgement.

Come on Mr Haines, stop living in the past and give Martin and his team some credit for being the country's best non-League side.

Dave Finch
Saltash Close Loudwater

● THE BFP sports desk welcomes letters on all sporting matters. Please ensure they arrive at our Gomm Road office by Tuesday.