Sir Walter to see Wycombe

WYCOMBE patron Jack Adams has invited former England manager Sir Walter Winterbottom to tomorrow's game against Gillingham at Adams Park.

Sir Walter, 80, was the director of coaching and manager of the England football team from 1946 until 1962.

"I have been trying to coax him to come to Adams Park to watch Wycombe for ages," said Mr Adams.

Hereford supporters attack Blues fan

HIGH WYCOMBE: Wycombe Wanderers fan Sean Robinson had his face severely cut and a tooth broken after Hereford United supporters surrounded his car and hurled a stone through his window.

The attack happened at 10pm on Tuesday after Wycombe's narrow win away to Hereford. Witnesses should call PC Barrie Feltwell on (0296) 396534.

Apology

THE editor apologises to readers who complained about the lack of a match report on Wycombe Wanderers' Coca-Cola Cup second leg match against Leyton Orient. This was due to a lack of space. We also apologise to those of you who noticed the wrong dateline at the top of the page. Such mistakes are unacceptable and we will endeavour not to repeat them.

Creaser forced to delay return

GLYN Creaser suffered a bitter blow to his comeback hopes when he was forced to pull out of a reserve team match at the last minute on Wednesday.

Wycombe's former captain, would have made his first appearance for eight months since his heel was crushed in an accident.

Both he and Wycombe boss Martin O'Neill were looking forward to his starting the Capital League game against Sutton United, which coincided with his 34th birthday.

But his foot became inflamed and he was advised by his doctor not to play. He was sure he was ready, saying beforehand: "I am looking forward to it after being out for so long. I am not so happy about it being my birthday, but I am glad to be making a comeback."

Mark West scored twice in Wycombe's 4-3 defeat by United.

M40 interview sparks gossip

SPECULATION put Martin O'Neill in the running to take over at Manchester City last Friday.

The national press decided he was the man to take over from Peter Reid at Maine Road after City's general manager John Maddock gave an interview while travelling south on the M40.

It later turned out that he was on his way to interview Oxford United's Brian Horton, who has now filled the hot-seat.

Evans aims to build on first appearance

TOWERING defender Terry Evans had a mixed first appearance for Wanderers at Hereford.

He was booked and conceded the free kick which led to Hereford's second goal.

"I am just hoping to improve on that performance and get another chance," he said afterwards.

"I had a great rapport with the crowd at Brentford who used to get behind me and I am hoping to get the same here."

"I will give 100 per cent, no problem about that."
