

Stick for star Josh

On the road to Wembley

IT'S not often you hit the winner then get called a lazy b d.

That's just what happened to Walton and Hersham hero Josh Price, the man who ended Wembley FC's FA Cup dream.

But then, when your big brother Neil's the manager, you probably don't expect too much in the way of praise.

Neil knows a bit about the Cup, having played in the Watford side that lost 2-0 to Everton in the 1984 Final.

"Josh has some good abilities but he's a lazy b d really," said Neil, 30, who was forced to quit playing through a knee injury.

Missing

"It's a bit rich coming from him," hit back Josh, 22. "He's a fat, lazy, balding b d."

Veteran stopper Steve Terry, who also played in the Watford Cup Final side, backed him up. "Neil was the type who'd go missing on cross-country runs — we'd all go one way and he'd go another!"

Banter aside, Walton and Hersham always looked in control in this third qualifying round tie at Wembley who are a division below them in the Diadora League.
