

Terriers County First School at Adams Park...

Football and school is winning combination

A LEARNING through football initiative was a winner with youngsters who spent a day at Adams Park.

Pupils from Terriers County First School, Totteridge Lane, and Shelburne County First School, Cressex Road, spent a day at the Wycombe Wanderers ground combining the fun of football with their school subjects.

Learning Through Football is a scheme sponsored by the Bucks Free Press and Midland Bank.

During visits to Adams Park the youngsters work on arithmetic, with the help of football league tables and the shape and size of the pitch, they learn about crowd control, with a visit to the police box, and talk to the club physician.

They also watch a video and have a tour of the trophy room and the rest of the grounds during the day.

"It is very popular, we are fully booked up now until the end of March," said Jim Melvin, community officer for Wycombe Wanderers.

They are then invited to do a project on their visit and hand it in to the club.

Steve Robinson, finance secretary for Shelburne School, said: "It is an extremely helpful day, I would recommend it to any school or organisation. It was very very well presented."

Blues' prices are good value

WITH Wycombe Wanderers on a crest of a wave at the moment, I am very disappointed with your lead story, 'Fans furious at cup ticket cost', in last week's Bucks Free Press.

I think the club has treated the fans very fairly over the past year. Prices at league games are cheaper than at most grounds and they have always given concessions.

Martin O'Neill turned his back on big money to stay at Wycombe and I don't know anyone at Saturday's game who showed any disapproval of the £8 ticket for the West Ham game.

I feel it was very negative of the paper to give this impression that the majority of the fans were furious over these prices. It simply isn't true and most would sooner read of news about the club and its players.

Most towns the size of Wycombe would be over the moon to play at home against a Premiership side in the FA Cup and consider £8 to be very good value.

There is much to be thankful for at Adams Park, don't let's look for faults, but be glad in what we have.
