

Fan gives his right leg for the Blues

THE search is on for Wanderers' top supporter. Paul Harris reports.

Your football-crazy Star today launches a competition to find the Wycombe Wanderers Supporter of the Year. We want to hear from fans passionate enough to go to any lengths to follow the Blues.

The winner will receive a Wanderers shirt and a football, signed by all the members of the team.

This week we kick off with our first hopeful supporter, Ces Sykes. The loyal Blues fan has tattooed the club badges on his right leg. He says he'll be a Wanderers fan for the rest of his life.

Ces, 35, from Henley, is a member of the supporters' club and tries to get to most games. He said of the Blues: "They play good football. It is generally a good day out."

The tattoo marks his commitment to the Blues. His wife Julie didn't mind – she can occasionally be seen on the terraces too. But, as Ces says modestly: "There are others [fans] who are a lot more crazy than me."

Newlyweds Tim and Tracy Wyatt, of Kaybridge Close, High Wycombe, first met while queuing for Blues season tickets in 1990. They married in May and will be at the match against Gillingham tomorrow.

Wycombe Wanderers Football Club are delighted to announce that the new 1,788 Bucks Free Press family enclosure will be open for the Blues' first home match against Gillingham this Saturday and for the Bury game on August 27.

It has been decided to relocate all the Upper Tier season ticket holders to the Main Stand.

Holders of the Upper Tier season tickets should enter the ground at entrance four, present voucher number one from their season ticket book for the Gillingham match and voucher number two for the Bury match and they will be issued with a numbered seat ticket for the Main Stand.

Lower Tier season ticket holders are unaffected.

The directors and staff of the club apologise for any inconvenience caused due to the main contractors Linpave Construction Ltd slightly overrunning.

The Bucks Free Press family enclosure will be available to those holding season tickets for this area and for any other families, OAPs, students or children on the day.

The AXA Equity & Law stand will be available to the general public as usual. The Upper Tier of the new stand will be open for the Reading Coca-Cola Cup match on Tuesday, September 3, and tickets are now on sale from the commercial office, Wanderers In Town, and the credit card hotline on (01494) 441118.
