Forum hijack is unfair to proud support tradition

I FEEL very proud to be a supporter of Wycombe Wanderers after reading about Wycombe Wanderers Independent Supporters Club donating more than £600 to The Special Care Baby Unit at High Wycombe General Hospital.

On the football front, WWISC pro-actively fosters good relations between fellow supporters of other clubs. Donations to the football club have also been made, and irrespective of if you are a member of WWISC or not you have more than likely benefited from one or more of their campaigning activities.

Their active support of the national "lets kick racism out of football" campaign is also to their great credit.

You would think that WWFC would be pleased to have dedicated voluntary supporters who care deeply enough about Wycombe Wanderers, it's supporters, football in general, and the wider community.

Sadly, the latest and in my opinion the lowest antagonistic act by the football club towards WWISC has now taken place. Unilaterally and without proper consultation or approval of WWISC the club has hijacked the John Gregory forum after WWISC had put in all the hard work into publicising the event.

This is not merely a trivial matter of a change of venue. This action by WWFC goes against one of the basic values of life in that you should treat others with the common courtesy you would expect to be afforded to yourself.

I hope pressure is brought to bear by supporters, sponsors and the local council on WWFC to change the course they have embarked on, as it is very damaging to the long term future of the club.
