

Get the beers in, Wanderers are at home

EARLY arrivals at Adams Park for tomorrow's second division clash with Preston can take advantage of a cheep beer offer. The Woodlands bar is offering a 40 per cent discount on Carlsberg and Moorlands beer between 12 and 1pm.

■IT WAS all systems go at Wycombe Wanderers on Sunday. Instead of celebrating their cup win at home manager John Gregory had all the players in for training.

Gregory said: "We needed to do it, it was heads down and back to work preparing for Tuesday's game."

Gregory went to Northampton to cast his eye over Watford who were playing an FA Cup tie there.

■Wycombe Wanderers Independent Supporters Club made sure the Blues won some local pride at Vicarage Road. The fans beat Watford's Independent supporters 2-1 in a tug-of-war match on the pitch before kick off.

■Wanderers Auto Windscreen Shield match away at Swansea

City has been confirmed for Tuesday, December 10.

■Defender Jason Rowbotham has returned from his month's loan at second division rivals Plymouth Argyle. He has come back carrying a knee injury which will keep him out for at least a couple of weeks.

The loan had been with a view to a permanent transfer for the unsettled full back but that deal is now off.

■John Gregory has praised the attitude of long-serving defender Jason Cousins, who has lost his first team place to on-loan Jason Kavanagh.

Cousins came back for the Colchester game when Kavanagh was cup-tied but was dropped again for the Watford match.

Cousins said: "I thought I had done enough to stay in."

Gregory said: "Jason's attitude has been first class. He has been brilliant around the place. He did well against Colchester and he gave me a nice problem."

Hoping for Mullers showdown

THE FA Cup draw has given Blues boss John Gregory an early chance to put one over his former manager Alan Mullery.

Wycombe have been drawn away to Barnet or Farnborough in the second round on Saturday, December 7.

Mullers is now in charge of third division Barnet and Gregory is hoping they beat Farnborough in the replay at Underhill on Tuesday, to set up the reunion.

Gregory said: "Alan Mullery was my old gaffer many moons ago when I was at Brighton it would be a good opportunity to meet up with him again."

"Football throws up these quirks of fate where you bump into old managers and old players. I would settle for meeting Alan in the next round and Brian Little in the one after that."

But although Gregory is happy with the draw he did cast an envious glance in the direction of Plymouth, whose home tie against Devon rivals Exeter has been chosen for Friday night Sky Television coverage.

Both sides will earn £60,000 each from the screening and Gregory said: "We could do with that sort of money."
