Blues face progress test

Wrexham V Wycombe
DAVE PETERS previews tomorrow's clash

JOHN Gregory gets the chance to see how far Wanderers have come under his management, when he takes the Blues to Wrexham tomorrow.

Gregory's first game in charge at Adams Park was the 0-0 draw against the Welshmen at the end of October.

He was furious with the performance during last week's 1-0 defeat at home to Preston and says he has got a few things up his sleeve.

The match is the last one of Jason Kavanagh's month loan but Gregory is hoping to sign the Derby defender for £15,000 by the end of today.

Gary Patterson, Matt Lawrence, David Farrell and John Williams could all come into contention after playing in the reserves 6-1 win over Woking on Wednesday, a performance which impressed the boss.

Gregory said: They gave me a few reminders."

But the boss is likely to resist calls to introduce reserve hat-trick man Damien Markman in a bid to end the Blues goal shortage.

Gregory said: He's still got a lot to learn."

Wrexham, who were on an unbeaten run of 13 league and cup games until last Saturday's 2-0 defeat at Brentford, welcome back Andy Marriott in goal. Marriott is under-study to Neville Southall for Wales and has missed the last month with a broken jaw.

The home side also have prolific marksman Karl Connolly and mid-field journeyman Kevin Russell fit.
