

We're sticking with stance on tickets

OF all the issues that affect the football fan, unfair treatment is always seen as a major sticking point.

WWISC, along with the official supporters club, were recently in contact with the football club about the so-called 'discount system' for supporters who buy tickets in advance.

Initially, both supporters organisations suggested to the club that this unfair practice should be stopped, and WWISC fully back the original statement regarding, what we see as an unfair ticketing system.

In the past WWISC have always encouraged not only its own members but all season ticket holders at WWFC to apply for their share as soon as they are eligible, well the time will soon be among us to attend the football club's AGM.

I would personally like to know how the meeting will be anything other than the club telling us what they want us to know, as there is no facility for 'any other business'.

Is it any wonder that the football supporter often feels like the preferable mushroom.

On the field there remains a few hiccups, but the team battled well last week to salvage a point against Preston.

Everyone knows I'm a Scotty fan, but I can't be the only one who noticed how much better we looked when he came on.

What with Scotty, Keith Ryan voted man-of-the-match, and Dave Carroll back in the starting line it's a bit like the old days. Maybe they have got the passion and the commitment to the Wanderers that a lot of the other players simply don't seem to have.
