Scott's missed chance sees Blues' unlucky opening day record continue

THIS was the moment Wycombe Wanderers knew their opening-day jinx had struck again – as Keith Scott's shot came back off the post in their

1-0 home defeat against Luton.

It was a chance Scottie would normally have swallowed for breakfast but from six yards out he failed to gobble it up as Blues' first-day curse struck again.

They have now won just once on the opening day of the season since entering the Football League six years ago.

But despite the setback Blues boss Neil Smillie and his new management team of Gary Micklewhite and Terry Evans remain upbeat as they take the team to Swindon tomorrow night in the first round of the Worthington Cup (ko 7.45pm).

Smillie said: "Gillingham have just spent a million pounds and got beat today."
