

Just lost for words over Wanderers

AN INDEPENDENT VIEW

By Sharon Deighton
Chairman, WWISC

WHEN I realised that it was my turn to write for the Bucks Free Press, I went into a bit of a panic.

I could not think of anything to say, except when will we see anything like some of the commitment that was on the pitch when we played Middlesbrough?

One of WWISC's members, Nigel, offered to write today's article so here is his offering.

Well what can you say about the last week or so?

After spending a fortune on travel to Burnley and two days in Middlesbrough thinking that the worst was over, we come to last Saturday's game against Bournemouth: How much longer are we supposed to tolerate this?

Am I the only one who thinks that the players we have at this club have suddenly lost the ability to do basic things like pass the ball to another Wycombe player.

Gates continue to slide and if nothing is gained from the next two away games at Colchester and Fulham then should we resign ourselves to relegation before the end of September.

What is the point of turning up?

It's certainly easy for the manager to point to no money and lots of injuries because that is the case, but is it just that? Or are some of our highly paid stars just not performing for themselves, the club, or the manager.

Pull your fingers out now, remember once people find themselves something else to do on a Saturday it may be hard to attract them back.

● WWISC will be running a coach to Fulham next Tuesday, if you would like to book please call Sharon on (01494) 450622.

The coach to Colchester Utd tomorrow is now full.

If anyone is interested in becoming more actively involved in Wycombe Wanderers Independent Supporters Club then please call me as we need some new blood around our table.

Bulman gets another start

COLCHESTER UNITED v WYCOMBE

A guide to tomorrow's game at Layer Road

TEENAGER Dannie Bulman keeps his place for tomorrow's all-ticket clash at bitter rivals Colchester United.

Smillie said: "Dannie has been a revelation, a real breath of fresh air."

Striker Paul Read will face a fitness test and there is a doubt of Nicky Mohan who tweaked his hamstring in the battle against his former club Middlesbrough on Wednesday.

If Mohan does not make it, Paul McCarthy will come into his position at the back as Blues go in search of their first league win of the campaign.

● Fans have until 4pm today to buy tickets for the match at Layer Road.
