

Sent off: Nicky Mohan infuriated away supporters with his gesture as he left the Adams Park pitch on Saturday

MOHAN FACES BIG BAN

Wanderers defender in hot water following his obscene gesture at Reading supporters

NICKY Mohan could be facing a multiple ban after he made obscene gestures to Reading fans following his sending off at Adams Park on Saturday.

The big defender, who was banned for the first three games of the season, could be in even hotter water now, if referee Clive Wilkes includes the incident in his report.

Mohan swore at Wilkes for his first booking of the afternoon and then boiled over again five minutes from time when he was sent off for an ugly challenge.

He didn't wait for the referee to flash the red card but headed straight for the tunnel flashing obscene gestures at visiting fans on his way.

An FA spokesman said: "We have unlimited powers to deal with things like this if it's reported to us."

Mohan could now face trouble all round. The police were in the ground and on Monday a spokesman confirmed they know about the incident.

He said: "We are aware of it and are awaiting the referee's report to see what he says and we may take it further."

Wanderers boss Neil Smillie refused to discuss the incident other than to confirm that he will be talking to chairman Ivor Beeks about it.
