Stallard's plea to Wycombe fans

FORMER Wanderers striker Mark Stallard is pleading with Blues fans not to blame him if he puts Wycombe deeper into relegation trouble on Tuesday.

The Notts County striker, who has scored four goals in eight games since his knockdown £35,000 move from Adams Park faces his old team-mates at Meadow Lane next week (ko 7.45pm).

He said: "I don't want Wycombe to go down but it's a professional job and if I get a chance to score I've got to be professional about it. I won't be thinking about what it means until afterwards.

"When I was at Wycombe I gave 110 per cent for them, now I'm a Notts player giving 110 per cent for them. It would have been easier for me if there was a clause in the transfer saying I couldn't play against Wycombe, but there isn't so I've got to get on with it and be professional."

Stallard is hoping fans will understand.

He said: "Under Bosman you won't get players staying at one club for ten years any more. There'll be a lot more movement. I was disappointed to leave Wycombe but we couldn't agree terms for next season and the club sold me in the bargain bucket because they were worried I'd jump ship for nothing in the summer."
