JERMAINE McSporry earned Wanderers their first opening-day point for three years and then said: "I hope that's enough to keep me in the team for the Wolves game."

Wanderers take on first division Wolves in the Worthington Cup first round, first leg tonight, hoping to build on Saturday's 1-1 draw at home to Burnley in the Nationwide League.

But Saturday's scoring hero 'Jock' McSporry is not sure whether he will be starting tonight's match as strike partner Paul Emblen is now free of the suspension that kept him out on Saturday.

And Emblen is desperate to play. His brother Neal plays for Wolves and all the Emblen family have got tickets for the clash.

Neal made Paul an uncle recently with the birth of his daughter Maisy Sarah but that's where the favours stop.

Paul who has played against his brother once before when his former club Charlton beat Wolves, is desperate to score against his elder brother tonight.

He said: "It's a dream draw for me. As soon as I heard it I rang my brother."

"I just hope I can get my place back in the team and play."
