

Fans get the chance to quiz the boss

WYCOMBE Wanderers fans have the unique opportunity to quiz manager Lawrie Sanchez, director Mike Greatwood, secretary Keith Allen and defender Mark Rogers at a Fans Forum on Thursday night.

The no holds barred question and answer session has been organised by both the official and unofficial supporters clubs and is designed to give supporters the opportunity to ask the questions they've always wanted to put to the people who matter at Adams Park.

Doors open at 7.30pm for an 8pm start.

Admission is free and there is a licensed bar which will be open throughout the evening.

Parry calling on council to help with access

BLUES director Alan Parry is calling on the council to build a new access road into Adams Park.

Writing in the QPR programme Parry said: "We were badly let down by the town's planners over a decade ago. Had they not been so inflexible and unhelpful at that time, Adams Park would have been built in a more 'customer friendly' location.

"Their successors have taken a much more enlightened view of Wanderers' value to the community."

And he added: "Realistically the only long term solution is to build a new access road. It is my dearest wish that the local authority – with whom we now enjoy an excellent relationship – will one day agree."

● Sneaky QPR fans managed to get into the home section of Adams Park for Monday's clash with Blues with help from a website.

Graham Peart, director of Wycombe Wanderers said that an unofficial Queens Park Rangers website helped QPR fans to claim they were from the area.

He said: "The website gave a number of roads in Wycombe and their post-codes so if they were asked where they were from and the post-code they were able to say so."

He added: "It meant there were away fans spread all around the ground but I don't think there were any problems at all."

And it helped make it the highest-ever home league attendance.

● Blackpool police are appealing for witnesses after a Wanderers fan suffered a broken kneecap following a collision with a car outside Blackpool's ground after last Saturday's match.

Witnesses can call Blues secretary Keith Allen on 01494 472100.

Huddersfield may lose Jenkins

They are reluctant to release Jenkins for the Sunday match.

Wanderers boss Lawrie Sanchez is also having to shuffle his pack.

Chris Marsh drops out after pulling his hamstring in the reserves and Dave Carroll is still sidelined with a back strain.

But striker Gavin Holligan will join the travelling party following his impressive showing for the reserves in midweek.

Sanchez said: "It's going to be a tough game. I think Huddersfield will finish in the top eight this year and if we can come away with a draw that would be a good result."
