

Holligan's out of the running

GAVIN Holligan looks set to miss the next three matches through injury and suspension.

The former West Ham striker, who was sent off at Reading last Saturday, found his week got even worse when he injured his groin in training two days later.

The injury kept him out of Tuesday's Brighton game and looks set to rule him out of tomorrow's visit of Port Vale and Tuesday's re-arranged game at Bury.

He then misses the following Saturday's match at Notts County through suspension and Wanderers aren't considering him for a return before the Bournemouth game on October 13.

● Wanderers were invited to a trials day which clubs such as Leicester City, Manchester City, Coventry, Bolton and QPR are attending.

Wycombe were invited to Sunday's footballcv.com showcase at Kettering which claimed a ten per cent success rate of lining players up with professional clubs at their previous trials day.

The trials will feature kids from the age of eight upwards and will also include professional and semi pro footballers looking for new clubs.

● John Cornforth is the new caretaker manager Exeter City. The former Wanderer is holding the fort at the third division club following the departure of Noel Blake.

● Blues have been drawn at home to Division Two rivals Brentford in the first round of this year's LDV Vans Trophy.

The match will be played on Wednesday, October 17 (ko 7.45pm) to avoid clashing with Wycombe's AGM 24 hours earlier.

Prices have been cut for the clash.

● Wycombe are still hoping to pull off the signing of Wrexham striker Craig Faulconbridge – but boss Lawrie Sanchez is having to play a waiting game while the Welsh club appoint a new manager.

Sanchez, had a £175,000 bid accepted earlier this month only for the Red Dragons to change their minds but he has re-submitted his interest in the wake of Brian Flynn's exit.

● An electrical fault has delayed the delivery of Wycombe's new scoreboard.
