

Hands off our Robbo

WANDERERS boss Lawrie Sanchez has issued a hands off warning to Swansea City and told them to forget about buying Stuart Roberts back.

The flying Welshmen is top of caretaker manager Nick Cusack's shopping list but Sanchez says Robbo, who has just bought a house in Bucks, is staying put.

Swansea sold the Welsh U21 winger to Wanderers for £100,000 in October and fancied their chances of getting him back after he failed to start any of the last ten matches.

But Sanchez said: "He is a very big part of my plans. I said when I signed him that he is one for the future and he will be a starting player next season.

"I've got high expectations of him. He hit the wall a bit this season when we hit a downward spiral and I left him out because I didn't want to make the pressure worse."
