

Blues set to announce price rise

WYCOMBE Wanderers are set to announce price rises of between five and ten per cent when they reveal the cost of next year's season tickets today.

The increase comes in the wake of the collapsed ITV Digital television deal, which sees the Blues standing to lose standing to lose £366,000 in budgeted income over the next two years.

Chief Executive Simon Monkman told the Bucks Free Press: "We have worked very hard to keep the increase as low as we feasibly could and the increase is less than the average.

"We've pegged our prices for the last three years and it is regrettable that we have to put them up.

Blues arrived at the new pricing structure after consulting with the club's supporters groups.

And as a sweetener to supporters, fans buying season tickets are expected to be given 20 per cent off in the club shop as opposed to the current ten per cent.
