

Wycombe need to get round Robins

Lawrie Sanchez

WANDERERS have been drawn away to second division rivals Swindon Town in the first round of this year's Worthington Cup competition.

And they will have to do something they have never done before if they are to advance to the second round of the competition when some of the Premier League boys join in.

Wanderers haven't beaten the Robins in seven attempts so far and manager Lawrie Sanchez knows Wanderers must put that statistic right.

He said: "It's not the draw we were looking for. We haven't got the best of records against them. Ideally you want to be at home and you want to play against a side that you're not going to meet in the league."

But it is a dream draw for Wanderers new boy Andy Thomson. He was born in Swindon and played 22 times for his home-town club after joining them as a trainee.

It could also be a special day for a couple of former Blues.

Striker Paul Emblen is currently training with the Wiltshire outfit following his release from Adams Park in the summer while former Wanderers loanee Sam Parkin is also discussing a move to the County Ground.

The cup tie, which will be played on a one-leg basis will be played at Swindon on Wednesday, September 11.
