

Robbo gives himself a detention

WINGER Stuart Roberts has put himself in detention after missing a sitter in Wednesday night's Worthington Cup marathon at Swindon Town.

The Welshman, who is still looking for his first competitive goal after almost a year at Adams Park, skied the best chance of the night high over the bar after being teed up by the mercurial skill of Darren Currie.

Robbo now plans to stay behind after training sessions to brush up on his finishing skills.

He said: "It was a bad miss. I should have scored – there's no doubt about it.

"I've missed a few chances in my time at Wycombe, but I'm not going to get too down about it because I've just got my place back in the team.

"I'm going to keep battling. I will be doing a bit extra in training and working on my shooting and crossing.

"The more you do the better you get and I aim to get better. The sooner that first goal comes the better. Hopefully it will come against Blackpool on Saturday."

But Roberts is staying positive.

He said: "I won't let it get me down. I know I can score goals. I scored five in the first couple of months of the season for Swansea last year but I haven't scored since.

"I know the lads will give me a bit of ribbing about that miss but a lot of players miss chances and I will get my shooting boots on."

Manager Lawrie Sanchez is convinced Robbo, who got two in pre-season friendlies, will get among the goals once he has broken his duck.

He said: "Robbo desperately needs to score. He's lively and gives us that extra bit of brightness. He will play plenty of games this season and get his chances.

"He's a bit like Diego Forlan at Manchester United. He can't score for love nor money.

"You could see his confidence was lacking with that chance. His arms were all over the place. He was thinking about it and when you're thinking about it, it doesn't come."
