

Taylor ready to play on

KEEPER Martin Taylor will begin his quest to extend his glittering career when he returns to full training next week after an injury-ravaged season.

The three times Player of The Year says he has no intention of hanging up his gloves and is hoping Wednesday's reserve game at Cambridge will signal the start of an Indian summer for him.

He is determined to stay in the game for another three years taking him up to the age of 39.

The 36-year-old former Derby netminder has lost his number one crown to Frank Talia this season and his Aussie rival has made the most of Taylor's injury woes by turning a month-to-month contract into a two-year deal.

Taylor said: "Whether my future is at Wycombe or elsewhere I'm not planning on retiring.

"It's been a disappointing season for me with my calf and then back injury but I believe I have got another two years in me after next year."

Cardiff change

WANDERERS' match at home to promotion-chasing Cardiff City on March 29 will be moved to Tuesday, April 8.

Although the date-change has not been confirmed by either club, the Free Press has learned that the Welshmen have re-booked their Wycombe hotel for April 8.

The new date will be confirmed when Mark Hughes names his Welsh squad for the European Championship qualifiers at home to Azerbaijan on March 29 and away to Serbia and Montenegro on April 2.

Brown on line

STEVE Brown will launch his testimonial website tomorrow at Stevebrown30.co.uk

The site will outline his plans for the year which include a pre-season friendly against Premiership opposition, a This is Your Life evening and the merchandising of his private Wanderers' video diary.
