

SANCHEZ: BLUES WILL COME GOOD

WANDERERS boss Lawrie Sanchez gave his side a vote of confidence after seeing them crash to their fourth defeat in a row.

He said he saw enough good things in Saturday's injury-time 1-0 defeat at Tranmere and last week's 4-0 thumping by Cardiff to persuade him that Blues won't get dragged into a relegation dogfight.

And he is backing his boys to banish any lingering fears of the drop in Saturday's six-pointer at home to Cheltenham.

He said: "If we play like we did against Tranmere and Cardiff we'll pick up points. I've no worries about that.

"The last two performances have been first rate, just what I'd expect. We'll get the win we need and hopefully it will be next week."

Wanderers have conceded 13 goals and scored just once in their last four outings and Sanchez believes his side are paying the price for their no-show at Chesterfield where they got thumped 4-0.

He said: "We upset the footballing gods with that Chesterfield performance and we're paying for it.

"You can't upset the gods like we did and think you can get away with just one game. It's payback time for what we did there and we're paying."

But he reckons his side have suffered enough and is calling on them to turn it round.

He said: "We need to win one of our last four games and we're capable of doing that.

"I don't want to go to Plymouth on the last day having to secure our future but we've got three good games in between to sort that out.

"I think we've got a good little group of players. They're showing their mettle now. They're being tested in the heat of battle and the younger players are learning.

"On their day they can beat anyone - what has cost us is that we've let teams poorer than us beat us because our attitude hasn't been spot on every week."
