

Blues old boys shine through

SEVERAL ex-Wanderers were in the news last weekend with former goal hero Andy Rammell leading the way.

Rambo, who was released in manager Lawrie Sanchez's cost-cutting exercise in April, scored his fourth goal in his last three appearances to steer Bristol Rovers to third division safety.

He struck again during Saturday's 2-1 win over Darlington to guarantee the Pirates' Football League future.

Another former Wanderers scoring legend, Keith Scott, also showed he has not lost the knack of scoring vital goals since leaving Bucks.

Scott, who spent two spells at Adams Park, scored the goal that kept Leigh RMI in the Nationwide Conference with the only goal of the game in their 1-0 win at already-relegated Kettering.

Ben Townsend, who was released by Wanderers earlier this season, was another last-day survival hero.

The youngster who played in Wycombe's FA Cup semi-final against Liverpool led Woking on their great escape scoring the first goal in the Cards' 3-0 victory over Telford United which preserved their Conference status.

Townsend and Scott had reason to be grateful to another ex-Blue as they celebrated their Houdini acts.

Mark Osborn's clean sheet for Farnborough in their 2-0 win over Nuneaton ensured that the Nuns were relegated instead of Woking and Leigh.

And Jason Cousins will be joining the trio in Conference combat next season.

Couzzo and his new team-mates at Aldershot were presented with the Ryman Premier Division Trophy after their 6-2 win over Hendon on Saturday.

Cousins was joined at The Shots' victory parade by two other Wanderers old boys, Lee Holsgrove and John Nutter.
