

Adams: Let's not panic yet

BLUES manager Tony Adams has urged players and fans not to panic despite the club's position.

Wanderers lie bottom of Division Two, six points clear of safety and a massive 11 points behind Oldham in 18th place.

But Adams reckons Wanderers have the talent to recover, starting tomorrow with the trip to Wrexham.

He said: "There's a long way to go so there's no point panicking.

"We still have 28 games to go and a lot of points available.

"I still don't look at the league table. Maybe I should but I'm just working on the organisation and the structure, coaching and training and if they perform like they did in the second half against Brentford, we'll start getting results.

JOE SLADE

WANDERERS

"I try to keep it very simple. I'll do a little bit of coaching so over the next few weeks upto Christmas, I'll be laying the foundation.

"I know these players know. I get to know players pretty quickly and I know what the boys can and can't do so we'll start building.

"There's a good spirit here. I was surprised where they were in the table because it's not a true indication of their ability.

"Physically and technically, they're very good. We've got some good ballplayers here and I've a lot to work with.

"There is a feel good factor at Wanderers

"There's still smiles on the faces as people go into work and still a spirit here.

"If we lose the spirit, I think we're dead but we're still working hard and there is a buzz here.

"Hopefully, I make it entertaining. It is hard work but we want people to keep coming in smiling.

"We try and entertain and make it informative and interesting.

But Adams knows there is still much work to do.

He said: "I want to have two players in every position fighting for the place.

"I want to create a good squad here with strength in depth. There's so many games and three cup competitions that you need a big squad and a talented squad.

"I had a look at two Danish lads last week and lots of triallists so there's people coming and going.

"I'm doing long hours looking at reserve team games and I've got the scouts working really hard.

"There are certain fundamental principals that need to be put in place.

"I've inherited a squad that's experienced in the division but I need to put those principals – certain physical, psychological, biomechanical things – in place to enable them to play well over the next few weeks.

"It's difficult because it's not pre-season. It's difficult to instill stuff when your going from game to game to game.

"There's a balance and a prioritising that has to go on."

But Adams isn't helped with the loss of Michael Simpson as he looks to bank his first points as Wycombe manager.

● Falcon returns: Page 17