But Blues boss Adams admitted he is in two minds about the future of Frank Talia, who was last season's runner-up in the Player of the Year awards, after initially saying he was heading for the exit.

Talia, who has 18 months left on his contract, has not played since Blues' FA Cup tie at home to Mansfield in December 5 but a few mistakes by rookie keeper Steve Williams has put Talia back in the frame.

He said: "Frank. I'm unsure about at the moment.

"Willo's made three mistakes so it might be time for Frank. It's not personal.

"I've got a job of working with him. I've got to look at every position and I'm constantly trying to upgrade every position.

"People might say, 'He's a great goal-keeper' but if I can find a better one, in he comes.

"I might put Frank back in [against Blackpool] and Frank has a very good game and then we go to Chesterfield and the boys win again and then we play at home and Frank has another good game, we'll be thinking, 'Hang on a minute, I'll put that plan on hold and we'll go with Frank.'

"At the moment, I'm looking and I've got to keep looking."

Talia said: "I think I have come to Wycombe and done a good job. Taking over from Martin Taylor was no easy feat but the fans took to me.

"It's down to the manager and he's decided not to play me.

"It surprised me because I thought I was one of the more consistent players this season."
