

Boston chief backs Adams to be a top boss

BOSTON boss Steve Evans has tipped Tony Adams to be a big success as a manager ahead of tomorrow's clash between the sides

Evans said: "Tony Adams was a class player and I think he will go on and prove it as a manager as well.

"He's very astute, he's intelligent, he's made some fantastic signings, he's very consciencious. I see him at numerous reserves games and he has got his team playing very well.

"I wouldn't be at all surprised if he's successful at Wycombe and then goes on to be successful at a bigger club.

"I put Wycombe down as one of my favourites for automatic promotion at the start of the season and I haven't seen anything to change that. They play a lot of good football and are hard to beat."

He believes Wanderers, Swansea and Yeovil will be claim the automatic promotion places with his own Boston side joining the others in the scrap for the final play-off place.

But Adams won't let the praise detract him from the job in hand.

He said: "It's very nice of him to say these things but we've got to go and prove it."

And Evans, who saw his own star player/coach Paul Gascoigne leave the club last week, hopes his clubs fans will turn out in force tomorrow to see Adams.

He said: "We've lost our England legend but we have got another one coming down."

Boston are unbeaten at home in the league this season but they will be without two of their key players when Wycombe roll into town.

Five-goal striker Jason Lee, who was once driven out of Nottingham Forest because of jibes about his pineapple hairstyle, is serving a one match suspension while defender Tom Bennett is also banned.

And Evans insists his team will have to be on the top of their game if they are maintain their unbeaten home run against a Wanderers side who have lost just once on their travels this term.

He said: "They are capable of comfortably turning us over if they play to the best of their ability.

"They have got the extra edge of Nathan Tyson and Ian Stonebridge and in Zema Abbey they have got a player who would be playing alongside Darren Huckerby in the Premier League for Norwich if it hadn't been for his cruciate injuries.

"We had him on loan at Boston and I would have been interested in keeping him but the kid made it clear he wanted to sign for Wycombe."
