

Money man leaves Blues

WYCOMBE Wanderers are set to lose their £7 million man.

Commercial manager Mark Austin has taken voluntary redundancy after earning the club a £7 million net profit in his time. Last year when the Blues were relegated he made a net profit of more than £800,000.

He said: "I'm very proud of what I've done at Wycombe and will go with my head held high, but I couldn't have done it without the staff and the sponsors. My record speaks for itself and I will be seeking employment from January."

Blues general manager John Harrison said: "Mark will be missed. But we need to look to the future and Mark is looking to his."
