

Triallist goes back to Watford

BLUES boss John Gorman will step up his search for a new left back after binning Watford youngster Jamie Collins.

Gorman brought the young Hornet into his training camp this week and played him in the 5-0 win over Crystal Palace's youngsters – before telling him thanks but no thanks.

● Cash-strapped Wanderers paid agents more than £24,000 in the last six months of 2004 – the fifth highest in League Two.

Blues, who recruited ten new players over the summer and made ten loan transactions, forked out £24,800 to agents, with most of the player-movement coming under Tony Adams.

Only four clubs paid out more than Wycombe in League Two – and only five teams in League One spent more money on agents fees – according to the report by the Football League.

● Gorman will face the supporters for the first time at a fans forum designed to raise money for the club's Supporters Trust on Thursday at 7.30pm.

He will be joined on the top table by general manager John Harrison and Ian Mather, who is the Founders Trust representative on the club's plc board

Admission is free but people are asked to give a donation to the Trust, which must raise £50,000 by February to earn a seat on the board.

● Former Spurs coach Jacques Santini was among the specatators who saw Wanderers hammer a Crystal Palace reserve and youth side 5-0 on Tuesday.

● Former England cricketer Phil Tufnell is the star speaker at an additional Sporting Dinner at Wycombe Wanderers on Friday, February 11th.

Tuffers has become a major celebrity over the last couple of years since winning ITV's I'm A Celebrity...Get Me Out Of Here. He is also one of the captain's of They Think It's All Over and starred in a TV commercial at Wanderers HQ for club sponsors loans.co.uk.

Tickets are £595 plus VAT for a full table of ten or £65 for individuals.
