

BLUES IN REF RAGE

Lambert's back in the dugout tonight after being sent off in FA Cup defeat

BOSS Paul Lambert will be back in the dugout for tonight's League Two clash at home to Darlington (ko 7.45pm).

The Blues chief was sent to the stands for arguing with referee Gary Sutton as Wanderers crashed out of the FA Cup 2-1 at Stockport County on Friday.

He was furious that the official awarded the Hatters a 43rd minute penalty when even David Poole, the County player concerned, admitted to some of the Wanderers players he had not been fouled by Russell Martin.

Lambert was banished to the stands for taking the issue up with the officials at half time and he continued his rant afterwards with a furious tirade against the official from Lincolnshire.

He said: "It was a woeful decision, absolutely shocking. Unless you are 100 per cent sure you cannot give it. Russell Martin won the ball and everyone in the ground could see that."

Continued on page 30

Anger management : Paul Lambert had to manage Blues from the stands in the second half after being sent off for arguing over Stockport's penalty as Blues crashed out of the FA Cup in controversial circumstances on Friday night.
Match report, page 30