

Axed Shearer says the decision is harsh

AXED keeper Scott Shearer has vowed to fight to win his place back.

The Glaswegian glovesman was dropped for Sunday's 1-0 win over Brentford following his costly clanger in the previous week's defeat at Chesterfield.

And he admits he did not see the axe coming despite owning up to his mistake which led to Chesterfield's second goal.

He said: "I think it is a bit harsh. It was only one cross I missed. I came and took four or five other crosses during that game and I feel as though I have done well since joining the club – but the manager makes the decisions."

He didn't know he was not playing until the team was announced on Sunday.

He said: "It was a bit of a shock and it is the worst feeling in the world not playing. It's never easy to take being dropped but I can't afford to sulk about it.

"I've just got to keep going on and keep doing what I was doing. I haven't come to sit on the bench because if you're like that in football you shouldn't be playing the game.

"I believe in myself so I believe I will get back in the team eventually. I'm confident that I've got enough in me so it is up to me now."

Boss Paul Lambert admitted it was a tough call deciding between Shearer and Jamie Young.

And Young grabbed his first chance of the season, keeping a clean sheet to heap the pressure on his rival for the green jersey.

And Shearer insists he was happy to see Young go through the 90 minutes unbeaten.

He said: "We've got a mutual respect for each other. We work really hard in training every day and push each other. It hurt that I didn't play but I'm glad that Jamie has come in and kept a clean sheet.

"It's not just about me. It is about Wycombe and the important thing is that the team does well."
